What is B2GTHR?

By Samuel Erwin Apr 1, 2025

What is B2GTHR?

Say hello to B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together)—the app that's about to redefine how you stay connected with the people who matter most. It's not just a tool; it's a living, breathing bridge to your inner circle, wrapped in a jaw-dropping, mood-powered experience that feels like stepping into a vibrant painting. Picture this: you're feeling serene, so you tap a glowing purple mood—suddenly, your screen transforms into a starry night sky with fireflies dancing. Need help fast? Hit red, and a bonfire crackles to life, signaling your crew. B2GTHR turns your emotions into a shared story, instantly showing your loved ones how you're doing—no long texts, no awkward calls, just pure, colorful connection.

This isn't your average app. It's a lifeline for busy lives, a safety net for tough times, and a celebration of the everyday. Whether you're checking on your bestie across the country, rallying support for a crisis, or just vibing with your family's collective mood, B2GTHR makes it effortless, secure, and downright beautiful. It's connection with soul—and it's about to change the game.

What are the Features of B2GTHR?

B2GTHR is loaded with features that don't just work—they wow. Here's the full arsenal, designed to hook you, protect you, and keep you connected like never before:

- Mood Magic: Pick from five electrifying moods—calm purple, relaxed blue, neutral teal, anxious orange, urgent red—via a glowing selector at the bottom of every screen. Add a snappy 100-character note (e.g., “Chillin’ like a pro” or “SOS—call me!”), and watch the app explode into life. Your mood triggers cinematic backgrounds—starry skies, ocean waves, falling leaves, or a roaring bonfire—that sync across your device, telling your story in vivid color.
- WellStream Snapshot: Your crew’s vibes, front and center. See everyone’s mood as glowing orbs—purple for peace, red for urgent—sortable by date, mood, or name. Nudge a quiet friend with “Hey, you good?” or kick off a SharedBoard if they’re in crisis. It’s your emotional radar, always on.
- SharedBoards – Your Private Collaboration Haven: When urgent mode hits, spark a SharedBoard with a friend. This is your secure, private playground to:
 - Drop notes (e.g., “Feeling lost—any ideas?”).
 - Share hyperlinks to helpful sites (clickable previews included).
 - Upload documents (PDFs, plans—up to 10MB).
 - Post photos (snapshots or memes to lift spirits).
 - Add phone numbers (tap to call or text).
 - Pin maps (meet-up spots or safe places).
 - Every board’s LIVE until one of you closes it, then it’s a locked archive you can revisit or wipe clean. It’s your crisis command center—or just a cozy space to brainstorm.
- Resource Sidekick: Every SharedBoard comes with a sleek side panel of live professional assistance. Need help? Tap into:
 - Medical Pros: Therapists, doctors—call or message them live.
 - Lawyers: Legal advice on speed dial.
 - Financial Experts: Budget tips or debt relief, right there.
 - Suicide Prevention: Hotlines and specialists, glowing urgent red when it counts.
 - More: Suggest your own resources—counselors, emergency services, you name it. These pros are vetted, ready, and just a tap away.
- Privacy That Packs a Punch: You’re in control, always:
 - Mood Hiding: Pick who sees what—hide “urgent” from your boss, keep “calm” for friends.
 - Silent Mode: Pause mood updates without cutting ties; no one’s notified.
 - Groups: Sort up to 20 connections into 3 squads (e.g., “Family,” “Ride-or-Dies”) and set privacy by group.
 - Block: Boot someone for good—they can’t come back knocking.
 - Ghost Mode: Step away with a custom message (e.g., “Taking a breather—I’m okay”) and a timer (1 day, 1 week, forever).
 - Data Lockdown: End-to-end encryption keeps your moods, notes, and boards Fort Knox-tight. No one’s peeking—not even us.

- Vibe Tracker: Your 30-day mood memoir, glowing on a graph. Multiple moods in a day? It averages to the next lowest (Purple + Orange = Blue). Missed days? It blends your last and latest moods across the gap. Spot trends like “3 urgent spikes—time to talk?” or share an AI-crafted vibe masterpiece—starry swirls or fiery streaks—to Instagram or beyond.
- Nudge & Rally:
 - Nudge: Ping a friend who’s been quiet 48+ hours with “How’s it going?” (once daily max—keeps it chill).
 - Request Support: In urgent mode, blast “I need help” to your chosen crew or groups—instant SOS with zero fuss.
- Fiber-Optic Widget: More on this below—it’s your home screen VIP.
- Slick Carousel: Swipe through glowing, 95%-transparent cards—Dashboard, WellStream, SharedBoards, and more—floating over those stunning backgrounds. Each card’s border pulses with your mood color, and content boxes (notes, settings, etc.) lift when tapped, like they’re alive.
- Settings Galore: Tweak notifications (urgent alerts on, daily recaps off), customize the widget, flip to light/dark mode, or unlock premium themes (new moods, backgrounds—think galaxy vibes or desert sunsets). Log out, go ghost, or even delete your account if you’re done.
- Help Hub: FAQs, live chat support (prioritized in urgent mode), and a resource stash—crisis lines, self-care tools, and a “Report Bug” button to keep us sharp.
- Onboarding Bliss: Newbies get a swipeable intro—set your profile, pick a mood, add friends, and take a quick tour. It’s smooth, it’s fun, it’s your launchpad.

B2GTHR doesn’t mess around—it’s a feature-packed powerhouse that’s equal parts connection, creativity, and control. You’ll wonder how you ever lived without it.

What is the Widget?

The B2GTHR Widget is your home screen’s secret weapon—a dazzling fiber-optic eye that beams your crew’s vibes straight to you. Imagine 1,000 tiny light strands, split among your connections (up to 20 free, more for premium). Got 10 friends? Each gets 100 fibers. 20? 50 each. Their moods—purple calm, teal steady, red urgent—scatter across the eye in real-time, shifting as they update. One friend goes urgent? The whole eye blazes red, flickering like a distress signal you can’t miss.

It’s not just a pretty face—it’s your always-on window into your people, no app-opening required. Customize it to prioritize urgent moods or spotlight a group (e.g., “Family”). It’s bold, it’s brilliant, it’s B2GTHR in your pocket.

Why is the Widget So Helpful for People?

The B2GTHR Widget isn't just helpful—it's a lifeline that'll have you hooked from day one. Here's why it's a game-changer:

- Instant Vibe Check: Glance at your phone, and boom—your crew's emotional pulse is right there. Purple fibers mean all's well; a red flare screams "someone needs me now." No digging, no waiting—just pure, instant awareness.
- Connection Without the Chaos: Life's a whirlwind, but the widget keeps your people in sight. Spot a friend's teal flicker to orange? Nudge them in seconds. It's effortless closeness, minus the overwhelm.
- Crisis Radar: That red takeover isn't just eye-catching—it's a call to action. When a friend's in urgent mode, the widget's your first alert, cutting through the noise so you can jump in fast—text, call, or start a SharedBoard.
- Your Emotional Compass: With 1,000 fibers weaving your circle's moods, it's like a living artwork of your bonds. See a mix of calm blues and anxious oranges? You've got the full picture in one stunning glance—perfect for busy days or quiet nights.
- Daily Spark of Joy: Even when life's calm, those glowing strands remind you who's out there, vibing with you. It's a little hit of warmth, a nudge to check in, a reason to feel connected every time you unlock your phone.
- Privacy-Safe Power: It's all encrypted—no one's snooping. You choose who's in your widget, and they only see what you share. It's peace of mind meets practicality.

The widget's your VIP pass to B2GTHR's heart—vibrant, vital, and always watching out for your people. It's not just helpful; it's the spark that'll make you—and everyone else—fall hard for this app. Investors, users, supporters: this is the future of connection, and it's glowing right here.

Let's dive into creating a comprehensive, top-level section for the B2GTHR Product Overview document, designed for someone who's never heard of the app before. This section will explain how B2GTHR works in full detail—covering slider cards, mood picker, backgrounds, connections, messages, and SharedBoards—without assuming any prior knowledge. I'll keep it thorough, clear, and engaging, painting a vivid picture of the app's structure while leaving specific page details for later sections. This is the big-picture view, setting the stage for everything that follows. Here we go!

B2GTHR: Product Overview

Section 1: HOW B2GTHR WORKS - OVERARCHING LOOK

Welcome to B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together), a mobile app that's all about keeping you connected with the people you care about most—your family, friends, or anyone in your trusted circle. It's not like a typical social media app where you post updates for hundreds of followers. Instead, B2GTHR is a private, personal space where you and a small group of up to 20 people can share how you're feeling in a colorful, visual way. Think of it as a digital heartbeat for your closest relationships, showing you at a glance who's doing great and who might need a little support—all wrapped in a beautiful, easy-to-use design.

So, how does it work? B2GTHR is built around a few key ideas: a sliding card system to navigate the app, a mood picker to express how you feel, stunning backgrounds that change with your mood, a way to see and manage your connections, simple messaging tools, and special SharedBoards for deeper collaboration. Let's break it all down step by step so you can picture exactly what it's like to use this app.

The Slider Card System – Your App's Control Center

When you open B2GTHR, you're greeted with a main screen, but the app is organized into a series of “cards”—think of them as pages or sections—that you can swipe through horizontally, left or right, like flipping through a deck. These cards are almost completely see-through (95% transparent), so they don't block the gorgeous background behind them. Each card has a glowing, rounded border that's just a bit smaller than your phone screen, making it stand out without feeling heavy. Inside the border, little floating boxes hold the information or tools you need—like your friends' moods or settings options.

You swipe with your finger across the top part of the card, and it smoothly slides to the next one, locking into place with a gentle animation, almost like a ripple of light. The cards are numbered for clarity: the main one, called the Dashboard, is at position 0. To the left are cards numbered -1, -2, -3, and -4, and to the right are cards numbered +1, +2, +3, and sometimes +4 (more on that later). Each card has a specific job—like showing your friends' moods or letting you tweak settings—and together, they make up the full app experience. It's intuitive: swipe left to see one thing, swipe right for another, all while staying immersed in the app's visual world.

The Mood Picker – Sharing How You Feel

At the bottom of every single card, you'll find the mood picker, a fixed row of five circular buttons that glow softly. This is how you tell B2GTHR—and your connections—how you're feeling. There are five moods to choose from, each tied to a specific color:

- A deep purple for when you're super calm and peaceful.
- A light blue for when you're relaxed but not quite at peak calm.
- A teal green for when you're steady and neutral—not too high, not too low.
- An orange for when you're feeling anxious or cautious, like something's off.
- A red for when you're in an urgent state and need help right away.

Tap one of these buttons, and it lights up with a bright glow. A small, see-through box pops up above it, asking you to type a short note—up to 100 characters, about a sentence—explaining why you feel that way. For example, you might write “Loving this quiet night” for purple or “Overwhelmed—need to talk” for red. You can save the note or skip it, and once you do, something amazing happens: the entire app reacts to your mood.

Dynamic Backgrounds – Your Mood Comes to Life

Every time you pick a mood, the background of the app—visible behind those transparent cards—transforms into a breathtaking scene that matches how you're feeling. These aren't just flat colors; they're animated, living worlds that pull you in:

- Choose purple, and you're gazing at a night sky filled with twinkling stars, a crescent moon glowing softly, and fireflies drifting lazily at the bottom.
- Pick blue, and a bright sky unfolds with fluffy clouds floating by, wildflowers swaying below, and bumblebees buzzing around.
- Tap teal green, and you're above a calm ocean, waves lapping gently at a sandy beach with seashells washing up.
- Select orange, and autumn leaves in yellows, oranges, and reds fall gracefully, piling up at the screen's base with a rustling breeze.
- Hit red, and a night sky pans down to reveal a bonfire, flames flickering and sparks shooting up as friends gather around, symbolizing support.

These changes aren't instant jolts—they shift smoothly over a couple of seconds, like a movie fading from one scene to the next. The glowing borders around the cards even tint to match your mood, tying everything together. It's not just a pretty trick; it's a signal to your connections, too—they'll see your mood update on their end, giving them a window into your world without you having to say a word.

Connections – Your Trusted Circle

B2GTHR is all about your people, and it starts with connections—the friends, family, or loved ones you choose to link up with, up to 20 for free users (more if you upgrade later). You add them by searching their name, email, or phone number, or by pulling them from your phone's contacts if they're already on the app. Once they accept your request, they're in your circle, and you're in theirs. You can see their moods, and they can see yours, but only what you let them—more on privacy in a bit.

Your connections show up in different places across the app, like on the Dashboard or WellStream cards, as little glowing orbs in their chosen mood colors. You can group them into up to three categories—like “Family,” “Friends,” or “Work”—to keep things organized. If someone’s mood turns red (urgent), it stands out, prompting you to check in. It’s a simple, powerful way to stay tied to the people who matter, without the clutter of bigger social networks.

Messages – Quick and Easy Check-Ins

Sometimes you want to say more than a mood can show, and that’s where messages come in. B2GTHR keeps it light and direct: from certain cards, like WellStream, you can tap a friend’s name and send them a message through the app, text them on your phone, or call them right away. There’s also a “Nudge” option—if someone hasn’t updated their mood in a couple of days, you can send a friendly “Hey, how’s it going?” to check in, limited to once a day so it’s never pushy. In urgent situations, you can even hit “Request Support,” sending a fast “I need help” to specific friends or groups. It’s not a full chat app—just the essentials to spark real connection when it counts.

SharedBoards – A Deeper Way to Support

When things get serious—like when someone’s mood hits red—B2GTHR offers SharedBoards, a private space just for you and one other person to team up. You can start a SharedBoard from the WellStream card if a friend’s in urgent mode, and if they agree, it pops up in both your apps under the SharedBoard Manager card. Inside, it’s like a digital bulletin board where you can:

- Write notes to each other, like “I’m here for you” or “Try this breathing trick.”
- Share website links for helpful info, with previews so you know what’s there.
- Upload documents, like a PDF of a self-care plan.
- Add photos, maybe a calming sunset or a funny meme.
- List phone numbers to call, with buttons to dial or text.
- Drop a map location, like a park to meet at, with a clickable preview.

There’s also a special side panel with resources—real professionals you can contact, like doctors, lawyers, or crisis experts—more on that in later sections. While the board is “LIVE,” both of you can add to it in real time. If either of you closes it, it becomes a read-only memory you can keep or delete later. SharedBoards turn tough moments into teamwork, giving you tools to support each other like never before.

Putting It All Together

Here’s how it flows: You open B2GTHR and land on the Dashboard card (0), where you see your mood and your friends’ moods at a glance. Swipe left to WellStream (-1) to dig into their details or send a message. Swipe further left to manage connections (-2), check SharedBoards (-3), or track your mood history (-4). Swipe right from the Dashboard to tweak your profile (+1), adjust settings (+2), get help (+3), or—if you’re in urgent mode—see a special support card (+4). At every step, the mood picker’s there, ready to shift the background and update your circle. It’s a seamless, sliding journey that keeps you connected, in control, and immersed in a world that reflects your feelings.

That’s B2GTHR at its core—a stunning, sliding-card app that uses moods, backgrounds, connections, messages, and SharedBoards to bring your closest relationships to life. It’s private, it’s powerful, and it’s designed to make every moment of connection count. In the next sections, we’ll zoom into each card and feature, showing you exactly how they work and why they’ll hook you from the first swipe.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

Section 2: Getting Started – Sign Up and Login Pages

Before you can step into the vibrant, connected universe of B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together), you need a way in—and that's where the Sign Up and Login pages come in. These are the welcoming gateways to the app, designed to get you started or bring you back with ease, whether you're a first-timer or a regular checking in on your loved ones. Imagine them as your personal ticket to a world where your moods light up the screen in stunning colors, and your closest relationships feel closer than ever. They're simple, secure, and packed with options to fit how you like to sign in—whether that's with an email, a phone number, or even your favorite social media account. Let's explore each page in detail, so you know exactly how to jump into B2GTHR.

Sign Up Page – Creating Your B2GTHR Account

The Sign Up page is your starting line if you're new to B2GTHR. It's where you create your own account, giving the app the basic info it needs to set you up and connect you with your friends. When you first download B2GTHR from your phone's app store—like Google Play or the Apple App Store—and open it, this page is one of the first things you'll see, unless you already have an account and head straight to Login. The Sign Up page is all about making your entry smooth and exciting, offering multiple ways to join so you can pick what works best for you.

How It Looks

The Sign Up page greets you with a soft, misty gray background—think of it as a calm, neutral stage before the app's colorful magic kicks in. Floating over this backdrop are two main areas, called “boxes,” with rounded edges and a slightly see-through look (20% opacity), so the mist peeks through. These boxes glow faintly around their borders, giving a hint of the glowing, lively experience waiting inside B2GTHR. Everything's laid out clearly, with plenty of space, so it feels inviting, not crowded.

What's on the Page

Info Box – Telling B2GTHR Who You Are

- This is the larger box near the top, where you can sign up the traditional way or use a social account. It's split into two sections:
 - Manual Sign-Up Fields: If you want to create an account from scratch, you fill in:
 - Name: Your full name (e.g., “Jordan Lee”) so your friends know it’s you.
 - Email: An email address (e.g., “jordan@example.com”) for logging in and app updates.
 - Phone Number: Your phone number (e.g., “555-987-6543”) as another login option and a way to find friends.
 - Password: A secret code you make up (at least 8 characters, like “OceanWave22”) to keep your account safe.
 - Social Sign-Up Buttons: Below these fields, you’ll see five colorful buttons, each a quick way to join using accounts you already have:
 - Facebook: A blue button with the Facebook logo—tap it, log into your Facebook account (a pop-up asks for your Facebook email and password), and B2GTHR pulls your name and email from there.
 - X: A black button with the X logo—tap it, sign into X (your X username and password), and it grabs your name and email or phone.
 - Google: A white button with the Google logo—tap it, pick your Google account (or enter your Gmail and password), and it fills in your name and email.
 - Phone Number: A green button with a phone icon—tap it, enter your number, and B2GTHR sends a six-digit code (e.g., “729104”) to your phone to verify it’s you.
 - Email: A gray button with an envelope—tap it, enter your email, and get a code sent there instead.
- At the bottom of this box is a big “Sign Up” button. It stays dim until you complete one method—either filling all the manual fields or finishing a social sign-up—then glows bright green and pulses, ready for you to tap.

Terms Box – Agreeing to the Rules

- This smaller box sits below the Info Box, making sure you’re okay with B2GTHR’s setup:
- It has a checkbox next to the text “I agree to the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.”

- “Terms of Service” and “Privacy Policy” are underlined in blue—tap them to read the app’s rules, like how it keeps your info safe and what you’re agreeing to use.
- You need to tap the checkbox (it turns green with a check mark) before the “Sign Up” button activates, whether you’re signing up manually or with a social account. It’s a quick promise that you’re cool with how B2GTHR works.

How It Works

Once you’ve typed your name, email, phone number, and password into the Info Box and checked the Terms Box, you tap the glowing “Sign Up” button. The app then sends a special code—six numbers, like “483920”—to either your email or phone (whichever you prefer; it asks you to pick). A new little box pops up asking you to type in that code. This step makes sure it’s really you and not someone pretending to be you. Enter the code correctly, hit “Verify,” and boom—you’ve got an account! The screen fades away, and you’re whisked to the Onboarding process (more on that in the next section) to set up your profile and start connecting.

Extra Features

- Mistakes Happen: If you type something wrong—like an email that doesn’t work or a password that’s too short—the fields turn red with a helpful note (e.g., “Please enter a valid email”).
- Login Link: At the very bottom, there’s a small line saying “Already have an account? Log In” in blue. Tap it, and you switch to the Login page instead.

The Sign Up page is your first step into B2GTHR—a quick, secure way to claim your spot in this vibrant world of connection.

Login Page – Coming Back to B2GTHR

The Login page is your way back into B2GTHR if you’ve already got an account. It’s what you see when you open the app after signing up—whether it’s been a minute or a month—unless you stayed logged in last time. This page is all about getting you back to your friends’ moods and your glowing app world quickly, with tons of options to sign in however you set it up originally.

How It Looks

Just like Sign Up, the Login page starts with that misty gray background—soft and soothing, a blank slate before your mood takes over. Two floating boxes with rounded edges and a see-through glow (20% opacity) sit on top, lifting slightly when you touch them. Their borders glow faintly, teasing the colorful experience waiting inside B2GTHR.

What's on the Page

Credentials Box – Proving It's You

This top box is where you log in, with multiple ways to do it:

- Manual Login Fields: If you signed up with email or phone, enter:
 - Email or Phone: The email (e.g., “jordan@example.com”) or number (e.g., “555-987-6543”) you used.
 - Password: The password you created (e.g., “OceanWave22”).
- Social Login Buttons: Below these fields, five buttons match the Sign Up options:
 - Facebook: Blue button—tap it, sign into Facebook, and you’re in.
 - X: Black button—log into X, and it’s done.
 - Google: White button—pick your Google account, and you’re good.
 - Phone Number: Green button—enter your number, get a code texted (e.g., “392847”), type it in a pop-up, and log in.
 - Email: Gray button—enter your email, get a code emailed, and verify it.
- Below all this is a glowing “LogIn” button. It’s dim until you fill in the fields or complete a social login, then turns bright green and pulses, ready to tap.

Options Box – Extra Ways In

- “Forgot Password?”: If your password slips your mind, tap this blue text. A box pops up asking for your email, phone, or linked social account (e.g., “jordan@example.com” or “555-987-6543”). Pick one, get a code sent there, then type a new password twice (e.g., “NewWave33”) to reset it.

- “Sign Up”: Blue text for newbies—tap it to switch to the Sign Up page.
- Biometric Login: If your phone has fingerprint or face scanning and you’ve turned this on after your first login, an icon (fingerprint or face) shows up here. Tap it, scan your finger or face, and skip the typing—it’s instant access.

You’ve got flexibility here! For manual login, type your email or phone and password into the fields, then tap “Log In.” Or, pick a social button—like Facebook—tap it, and sign into your Facebook account through a secure pop-up. If you chose phone or email login this time, enter it, get a code (e.g., “729104”), and verify it in a pop-up box. With social logins (Facebook, X, Google), it’s faster—no code needed, just sign in and go. Biometric’s the quickest: tap the icon, scan, and you’re in. Any method works as long as it matches how you signed up. Once you hit “Log In” (or scan), the screen fades, and you land on the Dashboard card—the app’s main hub—ready to see your connections’ moods and update yours.

Extra Features

- Error Handling: If you mess up—like typing the wrong password—the fields turn red with a note (e.g., “Incorrect password—try again”).
- Stay Logged In: After your first login, you can choose to stay signed in (a little checkbox says “Keep me logged in”), so next time you open the app, it skips straight to the Dashboard. You can turn this off in Settings later if you want more security.

The Login page is your quick, safe key back into B2GTHR, getting you to your connections and that glowing, mood-filled world in seconds.

Why These Pages Matter

The Sign Up and Login pages are the starting line for B2GTHR—they’re simple enough for anyone to use, even if you’re not tech-savvy, but packed with smart features to keep things secure and smooth. Signing up creates your unique space in the app, while logging in brings you back to it anytime. Together, they set the stage for everything else: the sliding cards, the mood picker, the backgrounds, and the connections that make B2GTHR special. Once you’re through these doors, the real fun begins—and in the next section, we’ll explore the Onboarding process that helps you set it all up.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 3: FIRST STEPS - ONBOARDING PROCESS

Once you've created your account on the Sign Up page—or logged in for the first time—B2GTHR doesn't just drop you into the deep end. Instead, it takes you by the hand with the Onboarding Pages, a friendly, step-by-step guide to set up your personal space in the app and learn how it works. Think of this as your personal welcome tour, designed for anyone who's new to B2GTHR, whether you've used apps like this before or not. The goal? Get you ready to connect with your loved ones, share your moods, and explore the app's glowing, sliding world—all in just a few easy swipes. Let's walk through this process together, so you can see exactly how it feels to start your B2GTHR journey.

What Are the Onboarding Pages?

The Onboarding Pages are a series of screens—five in total—that appear right after you sign up or log in for the first time. They're like a mini-adventure, introducing you to B2GTHR's key features one at a time. Each screen is its own “page,” and you move through them by swiping your finger from right to left across your phone, just like flipping through a picture book. These pages are big, colorful, and easy to read, with a misty gray background at first—soft and calm—until your mood brings the app to life. Little glowing dots at the bottom of the screen show your progress (one dot per page), and you can always tap “Skip” to jump ahead if you're feeling eager. Here's what happens on each page, step by step.

How It Looks

Every onboarding page fills your phone screen with a single focus—like setting your name or picking a mood. The misty gray background starts out plain, but as you move forward, it begins to hint at the stunning scenes (like starry skies or ocean waves) you'll see later. Each page has a “box”—a floating area with rounded edges and a slightly see-through look (20% opacity)—that holds the instructions and tools you need. These boxes glow softly around the edges, lifting a bit when you tap them, making the whole experience feel alive and welcoming.

The Five Onboarding Pages

Page 1: Welcome Box – Saying Hello to B2GTHR

- What You See: The screen opens with a big, glowing message: “Welcome to B2GTHR! Let’s get you started connecting with the people you care about.” The words “Be Together - Better Together” sit below in smaller text, explaining the app’s name. There’s a cheerful illustration—like a group of glowing orbs in different colors—hinting at the mood-sharing fun ahead.
- What You Do: At the bottom of this box, a glowing button says “Next” in bright green. Tap it, and the screen slides smoothly to the left, taking you to the next page.
- Why It’s There: This page sets the tone—warm, friendly, and exciting—so you know B2GTHR is about bringing you closer to your loved ones in a special way.

Page 2: Profile Setup Box – Making It Yours

- What You See: The box says, “Tell us about you!” Inside, there are fields to fill in, like a little form:
 - Name: Type your name (e.g., “Taylor Brooks”)—this is what your friends will see.
 - Profile Picture: A circular spot says “Add a Photo.” Tap it, and you get three choices: “Take a Photo” (opens your camera), “Choose from Device” (picks from your gallery), or “Skip for Now” (leaves it blank).
 - Birthday: Enter your birth date (e.g., “March 15, 1995”) by picking from a calendar that pops up.
 - Hometown: Type where you’re from (e.g., “Seattle, WA”)—just a fun detail for your friends.
- What You Do: Fill in your name (required), add a photo if you want (optional), and type your birthday and hometown (optional). Then tap the glowing “Save & Next” button at the bottom, which lights up green once you’ve added your name. The screen slides left to the next page.
- Why It’s There: This sets up your identity in B2GTHR, so your friends can recognize you and feel connected right away. It’s your first mark on the app.

Page 3: First Mood Box – Sharing How You Feel

- What You See: The box reads, “How are you feeling right now?” Below that, five glowing circles line up horizontally, each a different color with a label:

- Purple: “Deep Calm” (peaceful and serene).
- Blue: “Relaxed” (chill and easygoing).
- Teal Green: “Neutral” (steady, not too up or down).
- Orange: “Anxious” (nervous or cautious).
- Red: “Urgent” (needing help fast).
- Under these circles, a small text box says “Add a note (optional, up to 100 characters).”
- What You Do: Tap one of the circles—like purple if you’re calm—and it glows brighter. Type a short note if you want (e.g., “Loving this sunny day” for blue), keeping it under 100 characters (about a sentence). Then tap “Set Mood”, a green button that lights up once you pick a mood. The misty background suddenly shifts—say, to a starry sky for purple—and the screen slides to the next page.
- Why It’s There: This introduces you to the mood picker, the heart of B2GTHR. It’s your first chance to share how you feel, and it shows how the app’s backgrounds come alive with your choice.

Page 4: Connections Box – Adding Your People

- What You See: The box says, “Who do you want to connect with?” Below, there are two big options:
 - “Import Contacts”: A button that, when tapped, scans your phone’s contact list and shows anyone already on B2GTHR (e.g., “Mia Patel – Send Request”).
 - “Search”: A field where you can type a name, email, or phone number (e.g., “mia@example.com”) to find someone and send a request.
 - At the bottom, a smaller button says “Skip” in blue.
- What You Do: Tap “Import Contacts” to see a list—tap “Send Request” next to any names you want to add (they’ll get a notification to accept). Or type in the Search field, find someone, and send a request the same way. If you’d rather wait, tap “Skip.” Either way, hit “Next” (green and glowing after any action or skip), and the screen slides left.
- Why It’s There: This gets your circle started—B2GTHR is all about your loved ones, and this lets you invite them right away or save it for later.

Page 5: Walkthrough Box – Learning the Ropes

- What You See: The box says, “Here’s how B2GTHR works!” It shows a mini-guide with short tips and animations:
 - “Swipe left or right to explore cards” (a little arrow swipes across a sample card).
 - “Tap a mood to share how you feel” (a finger taps a purple circle, and stars twinkle).
 - “Check your friends’ moods here” (a glowing orb pulses red).
 - At the bottom, a big green button says “Finish”.

- What You Do: Read or watch the tips—they’re quick, just a few seconds each. Tap “Finish,” and the onboarding ends, landing you on the Dashboard card—the app’s main hub.
 - Why It’s There: This gives you a fast lesson on how to use B2GTHR, so you’re not lost when you start swiping and picking moods.

How It All Fits Together

The Onboarding Pages flow like a story: First, you’re welcomed with a warm hello. Then, you set up your profile—who you are and what you look like. Next, you pick your first mood, watching the app light up with your feelings. After that, you add your friends to share the experience. Finally, you get a quick how-to, so you’re ready to roll. Each page slides smoothly into the next, with that misty background turning into your mood’s scene (like ocean waves or falling leaves) after Page 3, tying it to the app’s core vibe.

You don’t have to do it all—you can tap “Skip” on any page to jump straight to the Dashboard, though you’ll need a name and mood eventually to use the app fully. The little dots at the bottom (five total, one glowing for your current page) show where you are, and the glowing buttons—like “Next” or “Finish”—guide you along. It’s a gentle, fun way to ease into B2GTHR, making sure you’re set up and confident before you dive into the sliding cards and connections waiting ahead.

Why the Onboarding Pages Matter

The Onboarding Pages are your personal bridge into B2GTHR—they take you from “I just signed up” to “I’m ready to connect” in five simple steps. They’re built for anyone, even if you’ve never used an app like this before, with big text, clear instructions, and a touch of magic as the background shifts with your mood. By the end, you’ve got a profile, a mood, some friends (or a plan to add them), and a sense of how to swipe and explore. It’s the perfect launchpad, setting you up to enjoy the app’s glowing, mood-driven world. In the next section, we’ll dive into that world—the Dashboard and all the cards you’ll swipe through next.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 4: Your Home Base – The Dashboard

Once you've finished the Onboarding Pages—or skipped them if you're feeling bold—you land on the Dashboard, the central hub of B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together). Think of the Dashboard as your home screen in the app, the place where you start every time you log in, and the spot that gives you a quick, colorful snapshot of your world and your loved ones. It's the first of many “cards” you can swipe through, numbered as “0” in the app’s sliding system, and it's designed to feel welcoming, simple, and alive with the moods of you and your friends. Whether you're new to apps or a tech pro, the Dashboard is your launchpad into B2GTHR's glowing, connected experience. Let's explore every part of it, so you can picture exactly what it's like to step into this vibrant space.

What Is the Dashboard?

The Dashboard is a single screen—or “card”—that sits at the center of B2GTHR’s sliding card system. Imagine your phone screen as a stage: the Dashboard is the main act, and you can swipe left or right to see other cards (like WellStream or Settings) later. It's where you check in on yourself and your friends, update how you're feeling, and get a feel for your circle's emotional pulse—all in one glance. The Dashboard isn't cluttered or overwhelming; it's clean and focused, showing just what you need to stay connected without bogging you down.

How It Looks

When you arrive at the Dashboard, the first thing you notice is the background—a stunning, animated scene that matches the mood you picked during onboarding (or a neutral gray mist if you skipped that step). If you chose purple for “Deep Calm,” you'll see a night sky with twinkling stars, a crescent moon glowing softly, and fireflies drifting at the bottom. Pick red for “Urgent,” and it's a night sky panning down to a crackling bonfire with friends gathered around. These backgrounds move subtly—like stars twinkling or waves lapping—bringing the screen to life.

Over this background, the Dashboard card itself is almost completely see-through (95% transparent), so you can enjoy the full beauty behind it. It's framed by a glowing border—a rounded rectangle just a bit smaller than your phone screen—that pulses faintly in your mood's color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside this border, four floating “boxes” hold the key pieces of the Dashboard. These boxes have rounded edges, a slight see-through glow (20% opacity), and lift a little when you tap them, making them feel like they’re hovering above the scene.

What’s on the Dashboard

The Dashboard is split into four main areas, each in its own floating box, plus a mood picker at the bottom that’s always there. Here’s what you’ll find:

Greeting Box – A Warm Hello

- What You See: At the top of the card, this small box says something like “Good Morning, Taylor!” or “Good Evening, Jordan!”—the greeting changes based on the time of day (morning, afternoon, evening, or night). It uses the name you entered during onboarding, making it personal right away.
- How It Works: There’s nothing to tap here—it’s just a friendly welcome that adjusts automatically using your phone’s clock. If it’s 8 PM, it’ll say “Good Evening”; at 7 AM, it’s “Good Morning.”
- Why It’s There: This little touch makes the app feel like it knows you, setting a cozy tone every time you open it.

User Info Box – Your Mood at a Glance

- What You See: Below the greeting, this box shows a small round picture of you—your profile photo from onboarding (or a blank circle if you skipped it)—next to your name (e.g., “Taylor Brooks”). Beside that, a glowing circle, called a “mood orb,” shines in the color of your last mood (e.g., purple if you picked “Deep Calm”). If you added a note, it’s there too, in tiny text (e.g., “Loving this quiet night”).
- How It Works: Tap this box, and it highlights the mood picker below, encouraging you to update your mood if you want. It’s a quick way to see how you last checked in.
- Why It’s There: This keeps your own feelings front and center, reminding you to share your vibe with your friends.

WellStream Widget Box – Your Friends’ Vibes

- What You See: This is the biggest box, taking up the middle of the card, and it’s the star of the show. It’s called the WellStream Widget, and it looks like a glowing fiber-optic eye—a circle filled with 1,000 tiny light strands, or “fibers.” These fibers are split among your friends (your “connections” from onboarding). If you have 5 friends, each gets 200 fibers; with 10, it’s 100 each; up to 20 friends means 50 fibers each. Each friend’s fibers glow in their current mood color—purple, blue, teal, orange, or red—scattered randomly across the eye so it’s a mix of colors. If any friend picks “Urgent” (red), the whole eye turns solid red and flickers, grabbing your attention.

- How It Works: The fibers update in real time—if a friend changes their mood, their fibers shift color instantly (e.g., from teal to orange). Tap the box, and it takes you to the WellStream card (swipe left to -1) for more details on who’s feeling what. Outside the app, this same eye lives on your phone’s home screen as a “widget”—a mini version you can glance at without opening B2GTHR.
- Why It’s There: This is your quick peek into your circle’s well-being—a beautiful, living picture of how everyone’s doing, so you can spot who’s thriving or struggling without digging.

How Are You Feeling Box – A Gentle Reminder

- What You See: This box only shows up if you haven’t updated your mood in a while. After 12 hours, glowing text says, “How are you feeling?” After 24 hours, it changes to, “Looks like you haven’t updated recently—how are you today?” It sits near the bottom, just above the mood picker.
- How It Works: Tap the text, and it highlights the mood picker below, nudging you to pick a new mood. Once you update, the box vanishes until the next long gap.
- Why It’s There: It’s a friendly poke to keep your mood current, so your friends know how you’re holding up—it’s all about staying connected.

Mood Picker – Always Ready

- What You See: At the very bottom of the Dashboard (and every card), there’s a fixed row of five glowing circles—the mood picker. Each circle is a mood: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap a circle—like teal for “Neutral”—and it glows brighter. A small box pops up asking for a note (e.g., “Feeling okay today,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip the note), and the background shifts to match—like ocean waves for teal—while your mood orb in the User Info Box updates, and your friends see it too.
 - Why It’s There: This is your constant tool to share how you feel, keeping the Dashboard (and the app) tied to your emotions.

How It All Works Together

The Dashboard is your starting point, blending your mood with your friends' in one flowing screen. The Greeting Box says hi, the User Info Box shows your vibe, the WellStream Widget Box lights up with your circle's moods, and the How Are You Feeling Box keeps you active—all floating over a background that reflects your latest mood. The mood picker ties it together, letting you update anytime. Swipe left from here to see more about your friends (WellStream, -1), or right to tweak your profile (Manage Profile, +1)—the Dashboard is the hub that connects it all.

It's not static—things move and glow. The fiber-optic eye shifts as moods change, the border pulses with your color, and the background animates subtly (like fireflies dancing or leaves falling). If a friend goes “Urgent,” that red takeover in the widget screams for attention, nudging you to check in. It's simple but powerful: one screen, one swipe away from everything else, keeping you in tune with your people.

Why the Dashboard Matters

The Dashboard is your B2GTHR home base—a place that feels personal the moment you land there. It's built for anyone to understand, with big, glowing pieces that show what matters: you and your friends. The fiber-optic eye isn't just pretty—it's a lifeline, showing your circle's vibes at a glance. The mood picker keeps you in the driver's seat, while the background makes every visit a visual treat. It's where connection starts, pulling you into the app's sliding, glowing world. In the next section, we'll swipe left to the WellStream User Cards (-1), diving deeper into your friends' moods and how you interact with them.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 5: YOUR CIRCLE'S PULSE – WellStream User Cards

After you've settled into the Dashboard—your home base in B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together)—it's time to swipe left to the WellStream User Cards, the next stop in the app's sliding card system. This card, labeled as “-1” because it's one swipe left from the Dashboard (position 0), is all about giving you a closer look at your friends, family, or anyone you've added to your trusted circle. Think of it as a window into their worlds—a place where you can see how they're feeling in detail and reach out to them with just a tap. It's simple, colorful, and built for anyone to use, even if you're new to apps. Let's explore every part of the WellStream User Cards, so you can picture exactly what it's like to connect with your people here.

What Are the WellStream User Cards?

The WellStream User Cards is a single screen—or “card”—in B2GTHR’s sliding system, one swipe away from the Dashboard. It’s where you go to dig into the moods of your connections—the people you added during onboarding or later on, up to 20 for free users. On the Dashboard, you saw a quick snapshot of their moods in the fiber-optic eye; here, you get the full story, with each friend displayed as their own little “mini-card.” This card is about checking in, sorting through your circle, and taking action—like sending a message or offering support—making it a key part of staying close in B2GTHR.

How It Looks

Like the Dashboard, the WellStream card sits over a background that matches your current mood—say, a calm ocean with waves for teal green, or falling autumn leaves for orange. It’s almost completely see-through (95% transparent), so that beautiful scene shines through. A glowing border frames the card—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—pulsing faintly in your mood’s color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside this border, one big floating “box” holds all the action, with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). This box lifts a bit when you tap it, feeling like it’s hovering over the background.

What's on the WellStream User Cards

The WellStream card has just one main area—the Connection List Box—plus the ever-present mood picker at the bottom. Here's what you'll find:

Connection List Box – Your Friends’ Mini-Cards

- What You See: This is the heart of the WellStream card, a big box that fills most of the screen. Inside, it’s a list of “mini-cards”—one for each of your connections—that you can scroll through by sliding your finger up or down. Each mini-card shows:
 - Name: Your friend’s name (e.g., “Mia Patel”), as they set it in their profile.
 - Profile Picture: A small round photo of them (or a blank circle if they skipped it).
 - Mood Orb: A glowing circle in their current mood color—purple for “Deep Calm,” blue for “Relaxed,” teal for “Neutral,” orange for “Anxious,” or red for “Urgent.” The whole mini-card glows softly with this color around its edges, making it easy to spot their vibe.
 - Timestamp: When they last updated their mood (e.g., “2 hours ago” or “April 6, 2025, 3:15 PM”).
 - Buttons: Five little glowing buttons sit on the right side of each mini-card:
 - “Message”: A chat bubble icon for sending a note inside B2GTHR.
 - “Text”: A phone icon for texting them through your phone’s messaging app.
 - “Call”: A handset icon for calling them directly.
 - “Nudge”: A hand icon—shows up if they haven’t updated in 48+ hours, sending a “Hey, how’s it going?” message (once per day max).
 - “Create SharedBoard”: A board icon—only appears if their mood is red (“Urgent”), letting you start a private collaboration space.

How It Works:

- Scrolling: Swipe up or down to see all your friends’ mini-cards if the list is long.
 - Sorting: At the top of the box, three buttons let you rearrange the list:
 - “Date” (default): Shows the most recent mood updates first (e.g., “2 hours ago” at the top). If anyone’s in “Urgent” mode (red), they jump to the top, with the most recent urgent update highest.
 - “Mood”: Orders from calmest to most urgent (purple, blue, teal, orange, red).
 - “Alphabetical”: Sorts by name (A to Z or Z to A—tap again to flip it).
 - Tap a sort button, and it glows brighter while the list reshuffles smoothly.

- Tapping Buttons: Tap “Message” to type a quick note (e.g., “You okay?”) that pops up in their app. Tap “Text” or “Call” to switch to your phone’s texting or calling app with their number ready. Tap “Nudge” to send that friendly check-in—it grays out after one use per day. Tap “Create SharedBoard” (for red moods), and a request goes to them—once they accept, it’s added to both your SharedBoard Manager cards (at -3).

Why It’s There: This box gives you a detailed, personal view of each friend’s mood, letting you sort them your way and reach out however you like. It’s your tool to stay connected, one person at a time.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Below the Connection List Box, fixed at the screen’s bottom, are five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap a circle—like blue for “Relaxed”—and it glows brighter. A small box pops up for a note (e.g., “Feeling good today,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to a blue sky with clouds), your mood updates across the app, and your friends see it.
 - Why It’s There: It’s your constant way to share your own mood, keeping you part of the circle while you check on others.

How It All Works Together

The WellStream User Cards is your deep dive into your connections, flowing naturally from the Dashboard’s quick snapshot. The Connection List Box fills the card with mini-cards—one per friend—showing their mood, photo, and timestamp, all glowing in their chosen colors. You can scroll through them, sort them by date (default), mood, or name, and use the buttons to message, text, call, nudge, or start a SharedBoard. Urgent moods (red) rise to the top automatically, their glowing edges making them impossible to miss, while the mood picker at the bottom keeps you in the loop too. The background—say, a bonfire for your red mood—ties it all together, shifting if you update your vibe.

It’s dynamic: as friends change their moods, their mini-cards update instantly—teal might turn red, jumping to the top. The buttons light up when you tap them, and actions like texting switch you out of the app briefly before bringing you back. It's one swipe left from the Dashboard (0 to -1), and you can swipe right to return or keep going left to other cards (like Manage Connections at -2).

Why the WellStream User Cards Matter

The WellStream User Cards are your personal bridge to your friends in B2GTHR—a place where their moods come alive with glowing colors and easy ways to reach out. It's built for anyone to use, even if you're new to tech, with big mini-cards, clear labels, and simple taps. The sorting options let you focus on what matters—recent updates, urgent needs, or just finding someone by name—while the buttons make connecting a breeze, from a quick “Nudge” to a full-on SharedBoard for support. It's where you turn the Dashboard's snapshot into action, keeping your circle close and vibrant. In the next section, we'll swipe left again to Manage Connections (-2), where you add and organize your friends.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 6: Your Circle, Your Rules – Manage Connections

Swipe left once more from the WellStream User Cards (-1), and you'll land on the Manage Connections card, marked as “-2” in B2GTHR's (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your control center for the people you've connected with in the app—your friends, family, or anyone you've invited into your trusted circle. Think of it as a toolbox where you can add new friends, organize them into groups, tweak who sees your moods, or even remove someone if needed. It's designed to be straightforward and empowering, perfect for anyone, even if you're new to apps. Let's dive into every part of the Manage Connections card, so you can see exactly how it puts you in charge of your B2GTHR relationships.

What Is Manage Connections?

The Manage Connections card is a single screen—or “card”—two swipes left from the Dashboard (position 0), sitting between WellStream (-1) and SharedBoard Manager (-3).

It's where you build and shape your circle of up to 20 connections (more if you upgrade later)—the people whose moods you see and who see yours. This isn't just a list; it's a place to add new friends, sort them into groups, set privacy rules, and decide who stays or goes. It's all about giving you control over who's in your B2GTHR world and how you connect with them.

How It Looks

Like every card, Manage Connections floats over a background tied to your current mood—say, a starry night sky if you're "Deep Calm" (purple), or a bonfire if you're "Urgent" (red). The card itself is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that gorgeous scene shine through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood's color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, four floating "boxes" hold the tools you need, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, feeling alive against the animated background.

What's on the Manage Connections Card

The Manage Connections card has four main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that's always there. Here's what you'll find:

Connections List Box – Your Current Circle

- What You See: This is the biggest box, taking up most of the card. It's a scrollable list of "mini-cards"—one for each person you're connected with. Each mini-card shows:
 - Name: Their name (e.g., "Sam Carter") as they set it.
 - Profile Picture: A small round photo (or a blank circle if they skipped it).
 - Mood Orb: A glowing circle in their current mood color (e.g., teal for "Neutral").
 - Buttons: Three glowing options on the right:
 - "Edit Privacy": A lock icon for changing what they see.
 - "Remove": A trash can icon to end the connection.
 - "Block": A shield icon to stop them from reconnecting.
- How It Works:

- Scrolling: Swipe up or down to see all your connections if the list is long.
 - Edit Privacy: Tap this, and a pop-up box appears with options:
 - Mood Visibility: Checkboxes to hide specific moods (e.g., “Hide Urgent” or “Hide All”) from this person.
 - Silent Mode: A switch to pause your mood updates to them for a set time (e.g., 12 hours, 1 day, or until you turn it off)—they won’t know you’ve gone silent.
 - Group Assignment: A dropdown to put them in one of three groups (e.g., “Family,” “Friends,” “Work”)—you can create up to three groups total. Tap “Save,” and the pop-up closes.
 - Remove: Tap this, and a confirmation pops up (“Remove Sam Carter? They’ll no longer see your moods.”). Tap “Yes,” and they’re gone from your list—they’ll need to request again to reconnect.
 - Block: Tap this, and another confirmation appears (“Block Sam Carter? They can’t request you again.”). Tap “Yes,” and their mini-card fades with a red outline—they’re out for good.
- Why It’s There: This box shows who’s in your circle and lets you tweak or cut ties, keeping your connections just how you want them.

Add Box – Bringing in New Friends

- What You See: A smaller box with a text field that says “Search by name, email, or phone” (e.g., type “sam@example.com” or “Sam Carter”).
- How It Works: Type a name, email, or phone number, and a list of matching B2GTHR users pops up below (e.g., “Sam Carter – Send Request”). Tap “Send Request” next to someone, and they’ll get a notification to accept or deny. If they accept, they appear in your Connections List Box.
- Why It’s There: This is how you grow your circle, finding and inviting people you trust to share moods with.

Requests Box – Handling Invites

- What You See: This box lists any incoming connection requests (e.g., “Luna Kim wants to connect – Accept / Deny”). Each request shows their name and photo (if they have one).

- How It Works: Tap “Accept,” and they’re added to your Connections List Box—you’ll see their moods, and they’ll see yours. Tap “Deny,” and the request disappears—they won’t know unless they ask again. Tap their name for a quick profile peek (name, photo, hometown) before deciding.
- Why It’s There: This gives you control over who joins your circle, letting you say yes or no to new connections.

Import Box – Adding from Your Phone

- What You See: A simple button labeled “Import Contacts” with a phone icon.
- How It Works: Tap it, and B2GTHR scans your phone’s contact list, showing a pop-up of anyone already on the app (e.g., “Luna Kim – Send Request” or “Jake Ortiz – Send Request”). Tap “Send Request” next to any names, and they’ll get a notification to accept. Tap “Done” to close the pop-up.
- Why It’s There: This makes adding friends fast—pulling from your phone saves time searching one-by-one.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen’s base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
- How It Works: Tap one—like orange for “Anxious”—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., “Feeling off today,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to falling leaves), updating your mood across the app.
- Why It’s There: It keeps you connected while managing your circle, letting you share your vibe anytime.

How It All Works Together

The Manage Connections card is your command center for your B2GTHR circle, flowing naturally from the WellStream User Cards (-1). The Connections List Box shows everyone you’re linked with, letting you tweak privacy—like hiding “Urgent” from “Work” group—or remove/block someone. The Add Box and Import Box help you grow your list, while the Requests Box handles incoming invites. The mood picker ties it to the app’s core, updating your vibe as you manage your people. Swipe right to return to WellStream (-1), left to SharedBoard Manager (-3), or back to Dashboard (0) with two right swipes.

It’s active and flexible: new requests pop into the Requests Box instantly, accepted friends appear in the Connections List, and privacy changes take effect right away—say, Sam stops seeing your red moods the moment you save it. The background (e.g., a teal ocean) shifts if you pick a new mood, and the glowing border matches, keeping everything tied together.

Why Manage Connections Matters

The Manage Connections card is your power hub in B2GTHR—a place where you decide who’s in your circle and how they connect with you. It’s built for anyone to use, with clear mini-cards, simple buttons, and privacy options that don’t overwhelm.

Whether you’re adding a bestie via Import, grouping “Family” together, or blocking an ex, it’s all about control and comfort. It turns your connections from a list into a tailored crew, ready for WellStream check-ins or SharedBoard support. In the next section, we’ll swipe left to SharedBoard Manager (-3), where you team up with friends in a whole new way.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 7: Teaming Up – SharedBoard Manager

Swipe left again from Manage Connections (-2), and you’ll arrive at the SharedBoard Manager card, labeled “-3” in B2GTHR’s (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your hub for special, private spaces called SharedBoards—think of them as secret bulletin boards you share with just one friend at a time to collaborate, support each other, or keep notes when things get tough. It’s where you start, track, and manage these boards, making it a key part of B2GTHR for deeper connection. Designed to be simple and inviting, even if you’re new to apps, this card puts teamwork at your fingertips. Let's explore every piece of the SharedBoard Manager, so you can see how it brings you and your friends closer in a whole new way.

What Is SharedBoard Manager?

The SharedBoard Manager card is a single screen—or “card”—three swipes left from the Dashboard (position 0), nestled between Manage Connections (-2) and MyVibes Tracker (-4). It’s all about overseeing your SharedBoards—private areas you create with one other person from your connections (the friends you added in Manage Connections). These boards are perfect for when someone’s mood hits “Urgent” (red) and you want to team up to help, or just to share ideas and memories. This card lists all your boards, lets you start new ones, and handles requests from friends, keeping everything organized and easy to find.

How It Looks

Like every card, SharedBoard Manager floats over a background that reflects your current mood—say, a crashing ocean for teal “Neutral,” or a fiery bonfire for red “Urgent.” The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that stunning scene shine through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood’s color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, two floating “boxes” hold the main features, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, feeling like they’re hovering over the animated background.

What's on the SharedBoard Manager Card

The SharedBoard Manager card has two main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that’s always present. Here’s what you’ll find:

Buckets List Box – Your Shared Spaces

- What You See: This is the larger box, filling most of the card. It’s a scrollable list of “SharedBoard cards”—one for each board you’ve created or joined. Each SharedBoard card shows:
 - Profile Picture: A small round photo of the friend you’re sharing with (e.g., “Luna Kim”), or a blank circle if they skipped it.

- Name: Their name (e.g., “Luna Kim”).
- Creation Date: When the board started (e.g., “Created: April 2, 2025”).
- Last Updated: The latest activity (e.g., “Last Updated: April 6, 2025, 3:15 PM”).
- Note Count: How many notes are inside (e.g., “5 notes”).
- Status: A glowing word—“LIVE” in green if the board’s still active, or “CLOSED” in red if it’s ended.
- Buttons: Three glowing options on the right:
 - “View/Update”: A magnifying glass icon to open the board.
 - “Delete Archive”: A trash can icon to erase it forever.
 - “Sever Connection”: A chain-link icon—only shows for LIVE boards—to close it.zzzzzzzzzzzzzzz

How It Works:

- Scrolling: Swipe up or down to see all your SharedBoard cards if the list grows.
- View/Update: Tap this, and you jump to the SharedBoard itself (a separate screen we’ll detail later). If it’s LIVE, you can add to it; if CLOSED, you can only look. You return here by tapping a “Back” button on that screen.
- Delete Archive: Tap this, and a pop-up asks, “Delete this archive? This can’t be undone.” Tap “Yes,” and the board vanishes—everything inside is gone for both you and your friend.
- Sever Connection: For LIVE boards, tap this, and a pop-up says, “Close this SharedBoard? It’ll become an archive.” Tap “Yes,” and the status flips to CLOSED—neither of you can add more, but the contents stay until deleted.
- Why It’s There: This box keeps all your SharedBoards in one place, showing who they’re with, how active they are, and giving you control to view, close, or delete them.

Pending Requests Box – Invites from Friends

- What You See: A smaller box below the Boards List, listing any incoming SharedBoard requests (e.g., “Luna Kim wants to start a SharedBoard – Accept / Deny”). Each request shows their name and photo (if they have one).

- How It Works:
 - Tap “Accept,” and a new SharedBoard card appears in the Boards List Box with “LIVE” status—you can jump in and start adding right away.
 - Tap “Deny,” and the request disappears—they’ll need to ask again if they want to try later.
 - Tap their name for a quick profile peek (name, photo, hometown) to help you decide.
- Why It’s There: This lets you say yes or no to new SharedBoards, keeping you in charge of who you collaborate with—especially handy when a friend’s in “Urgent” mode and reaches out.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen’s base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
- How It Works: Tap one—like red for “Urgent”—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., “Need help now,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to a bonfire), updating your mood across the app.
- Why It’s There: It keeps you connected while managing your boards, letting you share your vibe anytime.

How It All Works Together

The SharedBoard Manager card is your organizer for private teamwork, linking back to WellStream (-1) where you start boards with “Urgent” friends. The Boards List Box shows every SharedBoard—LIVE ones pulse green, CLOSED ones dim red—letting you view, close, or delete them. The Pending Requests Box handles incoming invites, adding new boards when you accept. The mood picker keeps your own feelings in play, shifting the background (e.g., starry skies for purple) as you update. Swipe right to Manage Connections (-2), left to MyVibes Tracker (-4), or two right swipes to Dashboard (0).

It's alive with action: a friend's new board request pops into Pending Requests instantly, and "Last Updated" ticks up when they add to a LIVE board. Closing a board flips its status, and deleting it wipes it clean—all with smooth animations like fading cards or pulsing borders. It's your command center for collaboration, tied to the app's glowing, mood-driven flow.

Why SharedBoard Manager Matters

The SharedBoard Manager card is your gateway to deeper connection in B2GTHR—a place where you and a friend can team up privately, especially in tough times. It's built for anyone to use, with clear SharedBoard cards, simple buttons, and a layout that doesn't overwhelm. Whether you're tracking a LIVE board with 5 notes or deciding on a new request, it's all about supporting each other in a way that feels personal and secure. It turns "Urgent" moments into action, linking back to WellStream and forward to the SharedBoard itself (coming soon). In the next section, we'll swipe left to MyVibes Tracker (-4), where you look back at your own mood journey.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 8: Your Mood Story – MyVibes Tracker

Swipe left once more from SharedBoard Manager (-3), and you'll land on the MyVibes Tracker card, marked as "-4" in B2GTHR's (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your personal diary of feelings—a place where you can look back at how you've been doing over the past month, spot patterns in your moods, and even share your journey with others. Think of it as a glowing mirror that reflects your emotional ups and downs, designed to be easy to use and fascinating to explore, even if you're new to apps. Let's dive into every part of the MyVibes Tracker card, so you can see how it turns your moods into a colorful, meaningful story.

What Is MyVibes Tracker?

The MyVibes Tracker card is a single screen—or "card"—four swipes left from the Dashboard (position 0), sitting after SharedBoard Manager (-3) and marking the leftmost edge of the sliding system for now. It's all about you—tracking the moods you've picked over the last 30 days, from “Deep Calm” (purple) to “Urgent” (red), and showing them in a way that's both beautiful and insightful. This isn't just a list; it's a tool to understand your feelings, see trends, and even create a shareable picture of your vibe. It's your own mood history, made simple and stunning.

How It Looks

Like every card, MyVibes Tracker floats over a background tied to your current mood—say, a starry night sky for purple “Deep Calm,” or falling leaves for orange “Anxious.” The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that animated scene shine through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood's color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, four floating “boxes” hold the features, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, hovering over the lively background.

What's on the MyVibes Tracker Card

The MyVibes Tracker card has four main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that's always there. Here's what you'll find:

Graph Box – Your Mood Over Time

- What You See: This is the biggest box, taking up the top half of the card. It's a glowing graph showing your moods over the last 30 days—or up to 25 entries if you update less often. Picture a grid with dates along the bottom (e.g., “April 1” to “April 30”) and a line of dots or a curve connecting your moods. Each dot glows in its mood color:
 - Purple for “Deep Calm.”
 - Blue for “Relaxed.”
 - Teal for “Neutral.”
 - Orange for “Anxious.”
 - Red for “Urgent.”
 - If you set multiple moods in one day (e.g., purple then orange), it averages to the next lowest mood (here, blue). For days you missed, it blends your last mood into your next one (e.g., purple on Day 1, teal on Day 5—days 2-4 fade from purple to teal).

- How It Works: Tap a dot, and a small pop-up shows your note and time (e.g., “April 10, 2 PM: Feeling calm today”). The graph scrolls left or right if it’s too wide for one screen, letting you see the full month.
- Why It’s There: This box turns your mood history into a glowing picture, letting you see how you’ve felt day by day—perfect for spotting highs, lows, or steady streaks.

Insights Box – What Your Moods Mean

- What You See: Below the graph, this box gives you short, helpful summaries about your mood trends. Examples might include:
 - “You’ve averaged Calm this week—nice balance!” (if mostly purple and blue).
 - “3 Urgent days this month—check in with someone?” (if red pops up often).
 - “Longest Neutral streak: 5 days—steady going!” (if teal holds strong).
- How It Works: These insights update automatically, looking at how often your moods change, how many times you hit “Urgent,” or if you’ve had a run of the same vibe. It’s just text—no tapping needed—but it’s there to make you think.
- Why It’s There: This box helps you understand your feelings over time, offering little nudges or cheers based on what the graph shows.

Share Box – Showing Off Your Vibes

- What You See: A small box with a button labeled “Share VibeStream” and a tiny preview image—like a starry swirl or fiery abstract.
- How It Works: Tap the button, and B2GTHR’s smart system creates a unique picture based on your 30-day mood trend. If you’ve been mostly calm, it might be a starry night; if urgent, a fiery mix. A pop-up shows the full image with a caption (e.g., “My VibeStream this month”), and you can tap “Share” to send it to social media (like Instagram) or save it to your phone.
- Why It’s There: This lets you turn your mood story into art, sharing it with the world—or just keeping it as a cool memory.

Export Box – Taking Your Data With You

- What You See: A simple button labeled “Export Data” with a download icon.
- How It Works: Tap it, and a pop-up asks, “Export as CSV or PDF?” Pick one—CSV is a spreadsheet file, PDF is a printable page—and it saves your 30-day mood history (dates, moods, notes) to your phone. You can email it, store it, or open it later.
- Why It’s There: This gives you a way to keep your mood data outside the app—handy for tracking or sharing with someone like a therapist.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen’s base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap one—like teal for “Neutral”—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., “Feeling steady,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to an ocean), updating your mood and adding a new dot to the graph.
 - Why It’s There: It keeps your current vibe in play, feeding the tracker as you go.

How It All Works Together

The MyVibes Tracker card is your personal mood archive, linking back to every mood you’ve set—like those from the Dashboard or WellStream. The Graph Box maps your 30-day journey, averaging multiple moods per day and filling gaps, while the Insights Box sums it up with friendly tips. The Share Box turns it into art, and the Export Box lets you take it offline—all floating over your mood’s background (e.g., a blue sky for “Relaxed”). The mood picker adds new dots as you update, keeping the tracker alive. Swipe right to SharedBoard Manager (-3), or three more to Dashboard (0)—it’s the leftmost card, a quiet space to reflect.

It’s dynamic: new moods update the graph instantly, insights shift as patterns change, and the shareable image evolves with your vibe. The glowing dots shimmer when tapped, and the border pulses, tying it to the app’s vibrant flow.

Why MyVibes Tracker Matters

The MyVibes Tracker card is your emotional time machine in B2GTHR—a place to see your own story in glowing colors and simple words. It's built for anyone, with an easy graph, clear insights, and fun sharing options that don't confuse. Whether you're spotting three "Urgent" days and reaching out, or sharing a calm streak with friends, it's all about understanding yourself while staying connected. It's a personal touch in an app about togetherness, setting the stage for deeper tools like SharedBoards. In the next section, we'll swipe right to Manage Profile (+1), where you tweak how the world sees you.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 9: Your Identity – Manage Profile

Swipe right from the Dashboard (position 0), and you'll arrive at the Manage Profile card, marked as "+1" in B2GTHR's (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your personal space to shape how you appear to your friends in the app—think of it as your digital "About Me" page, where you can update your name, photo, and other details to make your presence in B2GTHR feel just right. It's a simple, empowering spot designed for anyone to use, even if you're new to apps, giving you control over what your connections see when they think of you. Let's explore every part of the Manage Profile card, so you can see how it lets you shine in your own way.

What Is Manage Profile?

The Manage Profile card is a single screen—or "card"—one swipe right from the Dashboard, sitting between the Dashboard (0) and Settings (+2). It's all about you—letting you edit the information you set during onboarding (like your name and photo) and tweak how you show up to your circle of up to 20 connections (the friends you added in Manage Connections). This isn't about moods or tracking; it's about your identity in B2GTHR—making sure your profile reflects who you are, whether that's adding a new picture or fixing a typo in your name. It's your chance to put your best foot forward in this glowing, connected world.

How It Looks

Like every card, Manage Profile floats over a background that matches your current mood—say, a serene blue sky with clouds if you’re “Relaxed” (blue), or a fiery bonfire if you’re “Urgent” (red). The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that animated scene glow through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood’s color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, one main floating “box” holds all the features, with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). This box lifts a bit when you tap it, hovering over the lively background.

What's on the Manage Profile Card

The Manage Profile card has one main area—the Profile Box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that's always there. Here's what you'll find:

Profile Box – Your Personal Details

- What You See: This is the only box, filling most of the card with a clean, editable form. It shows everything you set during onboarding, ready for you to tweak:
 - Profile Picture: A round spot with your current photo (e.g., a smiling selfie) or a blank circle if you skipped it. Next to it, a small button says “Change Photo.”
 - Name: A text field with your name (e.g., “Jordan Lee”).
 - Birthday: A field showing your birth date (e.g., “March 15, 1995”) or blank if you didn’t add it.
 - Hometown: A field with your hometown (e.g., “Seattle, WA”) or blank if skipped.
 - Save Button: At the bottom, a glowing green button labeled “Save Changes.”
- How It Works:
 - Change Photo: Tap “Change Photo,” and a pop-up offers three choices: “Take a Photo” (opens your camera to snap a new one), “Choose from Device” (lets you pick from your phone’s gallery), or “Remove Photo” (clears it to a blank circle). Pick one, adjust the image if needed (e.g., zoom or crop), and tap “Done” to update it.

- Name: Tap the name field, and your phone's keyboard pops up. Type a new name (e.g., "Jordan L.") or fix it (e.g., from "Jrdan" to "Jordan"). It's required—you can't leave it blank.
- Birthday: Tap this field, and a calendar appears. Scroll to pick a new date (e.g., "April 20, 1996"), then tap "OK." It's optional—you can erase it by tapping a little "X" next to it.
- Hometown: Tap here, type a new place (e.g., "Portland, OR"), and hit "Done" on your keyboard. This is optional too—tap the "X" to clear it.
- Save Changes: Once you've made any edits—photo, name, birthday, or hometown—tap "Save Changes." The button only glows when something's different. The card flashes briefly, and your updates sync across the app—your friends see the new you instantly.
- Why It's There: This box lets you update your profile anytime, keeping it fresh and personal so your connections know who's behind the moods they see.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen's base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap one—like purple for "Deep Calm"—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., "Feeling great," up to 100 characters). Tap "Save" (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to a starry sky), updating your mood across B2GTHR.
 - Why It's There: It keeps your current vibe active, even while you're shaping your profile, tying this card to the app's mood-driven heart.

How It All Works Together

The Manage Profile card is your personal editing studio, flowing naturally from the Dashboard (0) with one right swipe. The Profile Box puts all your details in one place—photo, name, birthday, hometown—letting you tweak them with simple taps and a glowing "Save Changes" button. The mood picker at the bottom keeps you connected, shifting the background (e.g., teal ocean to orange leaves) if you update your vibe. Swipe left back to Dashboard (0), or right to Settings (+2)—it's a quick stop to polish your presence.

It's alive with small touches: the photo zooms smoothly when you change it, the "Save Changes" button pulses when active, and the background animates subtly (like fireflies or waves) behind your edits. Your updates—like a new name—reflect instantly in WellStream, SharedBoards, and everywhere your friends see you.

Why Manage Profile Matters

The Manage Profile card is your spotlight in B2GTHR—a simple, powerful place to define how you show up to your circle. It's built for anyone, with a clear form, easy taps, and no techy confusion, letting you keep your profile current and true to you. Whether you're adding a sunny photo or fixing your hometown, it's all about making your mark in this glowing, connected world. It's a personal pitstop that ties back to every interaction—your friends see the real you, photo and all. In the next section, we'll swipe right to Settings (+2), where you fine-tune the app itself.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 10: Your Control Panel – Settings

Swipe right again from Manage Profile (+1), and you'll land on the Settings card, marked as "+2" in B2GTHR's (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your behind-the-scenes command center—a place where you can tweak how the app behaves, from how it notifies you to how it looks on your screen. Think of it as your personal tuning knob, letting you make B2GTHR fit your life just right, whether you're new to apps or a seasoned user. It's simple, powerful, and designed to give you control without confusion. Let's explore every part of the Settings card, so you can see how it puts you in the driver's seat of your B2GTHR experience.

What Is Settings?

The Settings card is a single screen—or "card"—two swipes right from the Dashboard (position 0), sitting between Manage Profile (+1) and Help (+3). It's all about customizing the app to suit your preferences—things like turning notifications on or off, changing the app's colors, or even stepping away if you need a break. This isn't about your profile or your friends; it's about how B2GTHR works for you—making it louder, quieter, brighter, or darker as you like. It's your space to adjust the nuts and bolts of the app, keeping it comfy and useful.

How It Looks

Like every card, Settings floats over a background tied to your current mood—say, a starry night sky if you're "Deep Calm" (purple), or crashing waves if you're "Neutral" (teal). The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that animated scene glow through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood's color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, five floating "boxes" hold the options, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, hovering over the lively background.

What's on the Settings Card

The Settings card has five main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that's always there. Here's what you'll find:

Notifications Box – How B2GTHR Talks to You

- What You See: This box says "Notifications" at the top, with switches and options below:
 - Urgent Alerts: A switch labeled "On/Off" (default: On)—sends a loud ping when a friend picks "Urgent" (red).
 - Mood Updates: A switch labeled "On/Off" (default: On)—notifies you when friends change moods.
 - Daily Recap: A switch labeled "On/Off" (default: Off)—sends a summary of your circle's moods each evening.
 - Sound: A dropdown to pick a notification sound (e.g., "Chime," "Bell," "Silent").
- How It Works: Tap a switch to turn it on (glows green) or off (dims gray)—say, turn off "Daily Recap" if you don't want evening updates. Tap the "Sound" dropdown, pick a sound, and it plays a sample. Changes save instantly—your phone will ping (or not) based on what you set.

- Why It's There: This lets you control how often B2GTHR grabs your attention—loud and urgent, subtle, or quiet.

Appearance Box – How B2GTHR Looks

- What You See: Labeled “Appearance,” this box has:
 - Theme: A dropdown with “Light Mode” (bright backgrounds), “Dark Mode” (dark backgrounds), or “Auto” (switches with your phone’s setting).
 - Mood Backgrounds: A switch labeled “On/Off” (default: On)—turns the animated backgrounds on or off (off makes it plain gray).
 - Premium Themes: A button saying “Unlock More” (e.g., galaxy skies or desert sunsets—hints at paid extras).
- How It Works: Tap “Theme,” pick one, and the app shifts—Dark Mode dims the borders, Light Mode brightens them. Toggle “Mood Backgrounds” off, and the starry sky turns gray (toggle back to restore it). Tap “Unlock More” for a pop-up teasing premium options (not active yet—just a preview).
- Why It's There: This makes B2GTHR look how you want—bright, dark, or simple—matching your style or mood.

Widget Box – Customizing Your Home Screen

- What You See: Labeled “Widget,” with:
 - Priority: A dropdown: “All Connections” (default—shows all friends’ moods), “Urgent Only” (only glows red for urgent), or “Group” (pick one of your three groups, e.g., “Family”).
 - Size: A slider to adjust the fiber-optic eye’s size on your home screen (small, medium, large).
- How It Works: Tap “Priority,” pick an option, and the widget on your phone updates—say, “Group” limits it to “Friends.” Slide the size bar, and the widget grows or shrinks next time you check your home screen (you add it there separately via your phone’s settings).
- Why It's There: This tunes the fiber-optic eye outside the app, keeping your circle’s pulse just how you like it.

Privacy Box – Stepping Back

- What You See: Labeled “Privacy,” with:
 - Ghost Mode: A button saying “Enable Ghost Mode” and a text field for a message (e.g., “Taking a break—I’m okay”).
 - Time Limit: A dropdown: “1 Day,” “1 Week,” “Forever” (default: 1 Day).
 - Log Out: A red button labeled “Log Out.”
 - Delete Account: A red button labeled “Delete Account.”
- How It Works:
 - Tap “Ghost Mode,” type a message, pick a time, and tap “Save”—your mood stops updating for your friends, showing your last mood and message (e.g., “Jordan Lee – Neutral – Taking a break”) until the time’s up or you turn it off.
 - Tap “Log Out,” confirm with “Yes,” and you’re back to the Login page—handy for switching devices or security.
 - Tap “Delete Account,” confirm twice (“Are you sure?” then “Yes, delete”), and your account vanishes—moods, connections, everything gone.
- Why It’s There: This gives you a break or an exit, keeping you in control of your presence in B2GTHR.

Account Box – Your Sign-In Details

- What You See: Labeled “Account,” showing your email or phone (e.g., “jordan@example.com”) and:
 - Change Password: A button.
 - Biometric Login: A switch labeled “On/Off” (default: Off)—if your phone has fingerprint or face scanning.
- How It Works: Tap “Change Password,” enter your old one, type a new one twice (e.g., “NewVibe22”), and save—it updates instantly. Toggle “Biometric Login” on, scan your finger or face once to set it, and next login skips the password.
- Why It’s There: This keeps your sign-in secure and easy, letting you update access or add a quick biometric option.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen's base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap one—like blue for “Relaxed”—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., “Chilling out,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to a blue sky), updating your mood.
 - Why It’s There: It keeps your vibe active, even while tweaking settings, tying this card to B2GTHR’s core.

How It All Works Together

The Settings card is your customization hub, flowing from Manage Profile (+1) with one right swipe. The Notifications Box sets your alerts, Appearance Box styles the app, Widget Box tunes your home screen, Privacy Box offers a break, and Account Box secures your login—all floating over your mood’s background (e.g., orange leaves for “Anxious”). The mood picker keeps you connected, shifting the scene if you update. Swipe left to Manage Profile (+1), right to Help (+3), or two left swipes to Dashboard (0).

It’s alive with instant changes: toggle Dark Mode, and the card dims; set Ghost Mode, and your friends see your message right away. The glowing border pulses, and buttons light up when active, keeping it tied to B2GTHR’s vibrant flow.

Why Settings Matters

The Settings card is your control tower in B2GTHR—a simple, powerful place to make the app yours. It’s built for anyone, with clear switches, buttons, and no tech jargon, letting you tweak notifications, looks, or privacy with ease. Whether you’re silencing daily recaps, switching to Dark Mode, or logging out for a breather, it’s all about comfort and choice. It shapes your B2GTHR experience, linking back to every card and mood. In the next section, we’ll swipe right to Help (+3), where you find support when you need it.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 11: Your Lifeline – Help

Swipe right once more from Settings (+2), and you'll arrive at the Help card, marked as “+3” in B2GTHR’s (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is your go-to spot for support—a friendly corner of the app where you can find answers to questions, get help with problems, or reach out to someone if you’re stuck. Think of it as your trusty guide, ready to lend a hand whether you’re figuring out how to use B2GTHR or troubleshooting a glitch, all designed to be easy and welcoming, even if you’re new to apps. Let’s explore every part of the Help card, so you can see how it’s there for you whenever you need it.

What Is Help?

The Help card is a single screen—or “card”—three swipes right from the Dashboard (position 0), sitting between Settings (+2) and the Urgent Card (+4, which we’ll cover next). It’s all about making sure you’re never lost in B2GTHR—offering quick tips, answers to common questions, and ways to contact support if you need more. This isn’t about changing settings or managing friends; it’s about giving you the tools to understand and enjoy the app, no matter what comes up. It’s your safety net in this glowing, connected world.

How It Looks

Like every card, Help floats over a background tied to your current mood—say, a calm blue sky with clouds if you’re “Relaxed” (blue), or a fiery bonfire if you’re “Urgent” (red). The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting that animated scene shine through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing faintly in your mood’s color (purple, blue, teal, orange, or red). Inside, four floating “boxes” hold the support tools, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, hovering over the lively background.

What's on the Help Card

The Help card has four main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that’s always there. Here’s what you’ll find:

FAQ Box – Quick Answers

- What You See: This box is labeled “Frequently Asked Questions” (FAQ) at the top. Below, it’s a scrollable list of common questions with short answers, like:
 - “How do I add a friend?” – “Go to Manage Connections (-2), type their name or email in the Add Box, and send a request.”
 - “What’s the fiber-optic eye?” – “It’s the WellStream Widget on Dashboard (0), showing your friends’ moods in glowing strands.”
 - “Why’s my mood not updating?” – “Check if Ghost Mode is on in Settings (+2)—it pauses updates.”
- How It Works: Swipe up or down to scroll through the list. Tap a question, and the answer expands with more detail (e.g., step-by-step for adding a friend). Tap again to collapse it. The list has about 10-15 questions, covering basics like moods, cards, and privacy.
- Why It’s There: This gives you fast answers to things new users often wonder, so you can solve small stuff without waiting.

Tutorial Box – A Quick Refresher

- What You See: Labeled “Tutorial,” this box has a button saying “Replay Onboarding” with a play icon.
- How It Works: Tap the button, and the screen fades to replay the five onboarding pages you saw when you signed up—Welcome, Profile Setup, First Mood, Connections, and Walkthrough. Each page slides in, just like before, with the same instructions (e.g., “Pick a mood!”) and a “Next” button to move along. At the end, you’re back on the Help card. You can tap “Skip” anytime to return early.
- Why It’s There: This is a handy redo of your first steps, perfect if you forgot how swiping or mood picking works.

Contact Box – Reaching Out

- What You See: Labeled “Contact Support,” this box has:
 - Live Chat: A button saying “Start Chat” with a speech bubble icon.
 - Email: A field showing “support@b2gthr.com” (you can tap to copy it).
 - Priority Note: Small text says, “In Urgent mode? We’ll respond faster!”

- How It Works:
 - Tap “Start Chat,” and a pop-up opens with a text field—type your question (e.g., “Can’t add a friend—help!”), hit “Send,” and a support person replies in real time. If you’re in “Urgent” (red) mood, your chat jumps to the front of the line.
 - Tap the email, and your phone’s email app opens with “support@b2gthr.com” ready—type your message and send it the old-fashioned way.
- Why It’s There: This connects you to real help—fast chat for quick fixes, email for bigger issues—especially if you’re stressed and need it now.

Report Box – Fixing Problems

- What You See: Labeled “Report a Bug,” this box has a text field saying “What’s wrong?” and a “Submit” button.
- How It Works: Tap the field, type what’s off (e.g., “Widget won’t update”), and tap “Submit.” A pop-up says “Thanks! We’ll look into it,” and your report goes to the B2GTHR team. It’s anonymous unless you add your name.
- Why It’s There: This lets you flag glitches—like a stuck mood or a crashing card—so the app gets better for everyone.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen’s base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
 - How It Works: Tap one—like teal for “Neutral”—and it glows brighter. A box pops up for a note (e.g., “Feeling okay,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to an ocean), updating your mood.
 - Why It’s There: It keeps your vibe active, even while seeking help, tying this card to B2GTHR’s core.

How It All Works Together

The Help card is your support station, flowing from Settings (+2) with one right swipe. The FAQ Box answers basics, Tutorial Box refreshes your memory, Contact Box connects you to help, and Report Box flags issues—all floating over your mood’s background (e.g., purple stars for “Deep Calm”). The mood picker keeps you in the loop, shifting the scene if you update. Swipe left to Settings (+2), right to Urgent Card (+4), or three left swipes to Dashboard (0).

It's alive with support: FAQs expand with a tap, chats pop up instantly (faster if you're “Urgent”), and the glowing border pulses, matching your mood. It's a lifeline that moves with you, ensuring you're never stuck.

Why Help Matters

The Help card is your safety net in B2GTHR—a simple, friendly place to find answers and support whenever you need it. It's built for anyone, with clear questions, a redo tutorial, and real-time help that doesn't overwhelm. Whether you're puzzled by the widget, need a mood fix, or just want to report a bug, it's there to keep your experience smooth and fun—especially when “Urgent” mode makes it urgent for real. It ties every card together, ensuring you're supported in this glowing, connected world. In the next section, we'll swipe right to Urgent Card (+4), where things get serious and supportive.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 12: Your Support Hub – Urgent Card

Swipe right one more time from Help (+3), and—if your mood is set to “Urgent” (red)—you'll land on the Urgent Card, marked as “+4” in B2GTHR's (Be Together - Better Together) sliding card system. This is a special card that only shows up when you need it most—a dedicated space to rally help from your friends and tap into expert resources when you're in a serious spot. Think of it as your emergency toolkit, popping into view to give you strength and support, designed to be simple and reassuring, even if you're new to apps. Let's explore every part of the Urgent Card, so you can see how it's there to lift you up when things feel heavy.

What Is the Urgent Card?

The Urgent Card is a single screen—or “card”—four swipes right from the Dashboard (position 0), appearing only when you’ve picked the “Urgent” (red) mood from the mood picker (like on Dashboard or Settings). It sits beyond Help (+3) and disappears when your mood shifts away from red—making it a temporary but powerful addition to the sliding system. This card is all about action: it helps you ask your circle for help, start a SharedBoard fast, and connect with professionals like therapists or crisis lines. It’s your lifeline in B2GTHR, built for those moments when you need more than a mood update.

How It Looks

When the Urgent Card appears, the background locks to a specific scene: a night sky pans down to a crackling bonfire, with friends gathered around—flames flickering and sparks rising—symbolizing warmth and support. The card is nearly see-through (95% transparent), letting this vivid scene shine through. A glowing border—a rounded rectangle just smaller than your phone screen—frames it, pulsing brightly in red to match your “Urgent” mood. Inside, four floating “boxes” hold the tools, each with rounded edges and a slight see-through glow (20% opacity). These boxes lift a bit when you tap them, hovering over the bonfire backdrop, and everything feels urgent yet calming.

What's on the Urgent Card

The Urgent Card has four main areas—each in its own floating box—plus the mood picker at the bottom that’s always there. Here’s what you’ll find:

Request Support Box – Rallying Your Circle

- What You See: This box is labeled “Request Support” at the top. Below, it says “Ask your friends for help” with a button labeled “Send Request” and a dropdown to pick who gets it: “All Connections” (default), or one of your three groups (e.g., “Family,” “Friends,” “Work”).
- How It Works: Tap the dropdown, pick a group (e.g., “Friends”), then tap “Send Request.” A pop-up asks for a short message (e.g., “I need help—can someone call?”—up to 100 characters). Tap “Send,” and everyone in that group gets a notification in their B2GTHR app—“Jordan Lee needs help: ‘I need help—can someone call?’”—plus a ping on their phone if they’ve got Urgent Alerts on (from Settings). The button grays out for 24 hours after one use, so it's not spammy.

- Why It's There: This is your SOS button—fast and direct—telling your trusted people you need them now.

SharedBoard Quickstart Box – Teaming Up Fast

- What You See: Labeled “Start a SharedBoard,” this box lists your connections with “Urgent” next to anyone already in red mood (e.g., “Luna Kim – Urgent”). Each name has a “Create” button beside it.
- How It Works: Tap “Create” next to a friend (e.g., “Luna Kim”), and a request goes to them—“Jordan Lee wants to start a SharedBoard.” If they accept (via their SharedBoard Manager at -3), a new LIVE SharedBoard appears in both your SharedBoard Manager cards (-3), ready for notes, links, or photos. If no one’s in red, you can still pick anyone to team up with.
- Why It's There: This speeds up collaboration—especially with someone else in “Urgent”—so you can support each other right away in a private space.

Resources Box – Expert Help

- What You See: Labeled “Resources,” this box lists professional contacts with tappable buttons:
 - Suicide Prevention: “Call Now” (e.g., 988 in the US) and “Chat Now” (links to a crisis site).
 - Therapist Hotline: “Call Now” (a vetted number) and “Message Now” (opens a secure chat).
 - Medical Advice: “Call Now” (e.g., a nurse line).
 - More: A button saying “See Full List” for extra options (lawyers, financial help).
- How It Works: Tap “Call Now,” and your phone dials the number (e.g., 988). Tap “Chat Now” or “Message Now,” and a secure pop-up opens to type a message—live pros reply fast, prioritized if you’re in “Urgent” mode. Tap “See Full List,” and a scrollable pop-up shows more vetted contacts (e.g., “Legal Aid – Call Now”).
- Why It's There: This connects you to real experts instantly—crucial support when you’re in a red mood and need more than friends can offer.

Note Box – Why You’re Here

- What You See: Labeled “Your Urgent Note,” this box shows your latest “Urgent” mood note (e.g., “Feeling overwhelmed—need help”) and the time you set it (e.g., “April 6, 2025, 3:15 PM”).
- How It Works: It’s just text—no tapping needed—but it reminds you (and reinforces to you) why this card popped up. Change your mood via the picker below, and if it’s not red, this card vanishes next time you swipe.
- Why It’s There: This keeps your reason front and center, grounding the card in your current need.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom

- What You See: Fixed at the screen’s base, five glowing circles: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent—with a brighter glow since you’re here).
- How It Works: Tap a new mood—like blue for “Relaxed”—and a box pops up for a note (e.g., “Feeling better now,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to a blue sky), your mood updates, and the Urgent Card disappears on your next swipe—replaced by the regular +4 slot (if any).
- Why It’s There: It’s your way out—or to stay—keeping this card tied to your “Urgent” state.

How It All Works Together

The Urgent Card is your crisis companion, appearing only when you’re in “Urgent” (red) mode, one swipe right from Help (+3). The Request Support Box rallies your circle, SharedBoard Quickstart Box pairs you with a friend, Resources Box links to pros, and Note Box anchors it to your need—all over a bonfire background that screams support. The mood picker lets you shift gears, vanishing the card if you’re no longer red. Swipe left to Help (+3), or four left swipes to Dashboard (0)—it’s a temporary lifeline that moves with your mood.

It’s urgent and active: “Send Request” pings friends instantly, “Create” starts boards fast, and resource calls connect in seconds. The red border pulses stronger, and the bonfire flickers, making it feel pressing yet warm.

Why the Urgent Card Matters

The Urgent Card is your beacon in B2GTHR—a simple, powerful hub that shows up only when you’re in “Urgent” mode, ready to help you through tough times. It’s built for anyone, with clear buttons, instant actions, and no clutter, ensuring you can reach friends or pros without stress. Whether you’re sending an SOS, starting a SharedBoard, or calling a hotline, it’s all about support—fast and real—tying every card together in a crisis. When you’re ready to move on, one mood tap sends it away. In the next section, we’ll zoom into the SharedBoard itself—the screen where collaboration happens.

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 13: Your Private Team Space – SharedBoard

When you tap “View/Update” on a SharedBoard card from the SharedBoard Manager (-3) or start one via the Urgent Card (+4), you’re taken to the SharedBoard screen—a special, private area in B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together) where you and one friend can work together. This isn’t part of the sliding card system with numbers like Dashboard (0) or Settings (+2); it’s a full-screen space you jump into and leave with a “Back” button. Think of it as a digital bulletin board just for the two of you—perfect for sharing ideas, offering support, or planning something together, especially in tough times. It’s simple, collaborative, and designed for anyone to use, even if you’re new to apps. Let’s explore every part of the SharedBoard screen, so you can see how it brings you and your friend closer in a unique way.

What Is the SharedBoard?

The SharedBoard is a standalone screen you enter from the SharedBoard Manager (-3) after creating or accepting a board with one of your connections (the friends you added in Manage Connections). It’s a private space where you and that friend—say, “Luna Kim”—can post notes, links, photos, and more, all visible only to the two of you. It’s “LIVE” while active—meaning both of you can add to it in real time—and becomes a “CLOSED” archive when one of you ends it (via SharedBoard Manager), locking it for viewing only until deleted. This is where you turn an “Urgent” mood into action or just share a cozy corner with a pal, making it a key part of B2GTHR’s deeper connection tools.

How It Looks

The SharedBoard screen takes over your phone entirely—no sliding cards here. The background matches your current mood—say, a starry sky if you’re “Deep Calm” (purple), or a bonfire if you’re “Urgent” (red)—staying consistent with the app’s vibe. Over this, the screen is split into two main parts: a big, scrollable “board” area that’s slightly see-through (20% opacity) with rounded edges, and a fixed “Resource Sidekick” panel on the right, glowing faintly. A header at the top shows the friend’s name (e.g., “SharedBoard with Luna Kim”) and status (“LIVE” in green or “CLOSED” in red), while a “Back” button sits in the corner to return you to SharedBoard Manager (-3).

What’s on the SharedBoard Screen

The SharedBoard screen has two main sections—the Board Area and Resource Sidekick—plus the mood picker at the bottom (for LIVE boards). Here’s what you’ll find:

Board Area – Your Collaboration Space

- What You See: This takes up most of the screen—a big, scrollable space where you and your friend add items. It’s like a bulletin board with “pins” (entries) stacked top to bottom, newest at the top. Each pin shows who added it (e.g., “Jordan” or “Luna”) and when (e.g., “April 6, 2025, 3:15 PM”). Types of pins include:
 - Notes: Text boxes (e.g., “Feeling lost—any tips?”—up to 500 characters).
 - Hyperlinks: Clickable web links with previews (e.g., “www.helpline.org” shows a site snippet).
 - Documents: Files up to 10MB (e.g., “SelfCare.pdf”—tap to view).
 - Photos: Images (e.g., a sunset pic—tap to zoom).
 - Phone Numbers: Numbers with buttons (e.g., “555-123-4567 – Call / Text”).
 - Maps: Locations with previews (e.g., “Park – View Map” opens a pin).
- How It Works:
 - If LIVE: At the bottom of the Board Area, six glowing buttons let you add pins: “Note,” “Link,” “Document,” “Photo,” “Phone,” “Map.” Tap one—like “Note”—type your message (e.g., “Try this breathing trick”), and hit “Post.” It appears instantly for both of you, with your name and timestamp. For “Photo,” pick from your gallery or camera; for “Map,” drop a pin on a mini-map and save—each pin pops up live.

- If CLOSED: The add buttons vanish—you can only scroll and tap pins to view them (e.g., tap a photo to see it full-screen). It's a locked memory now.
- Scrolling: Swipe up or down to see all pins if the board fills up.
- Why It's There: This is your shared workspace—whether you're brainstorming help ideas or just swapping memes, it's where teamwork happens, private and real-time.

Resource Sidekick – Expert Backup

- What You See: On the right, a narrow, fixed panel labeled “Resources” lists professional contacts, glowing brighter if either of you is in “Urgent” (red) mode:
 - Suicide Prevention: “Call 988” and “Chat Now.”
 - Therapist: “Call Now” and “Message Now.”
 - Medical: “Call Now.”
 - More: A “Full List” button for extras (lawyers, financial aid).
- How It Works: Tap “Call,” and your phone dials (e.g., 988). Tap “Chat” or “Message,” and a secure pop-up opens—type your issue (e.g., “Need advice”), and a pro replies fast, prioritized if “Urgent.” Tap “Full List,” and a pop-up scrolls with more options (e.g., “Legal Aid – Call”). These stay active even if the board is CLOSED—help’s always there.
- Why It's There: This brings expert support into your private space—vetted pros you can reach instantly, boosting what you and your friend can do together.

Mood Picker – Always at the Bottom (LIVE Only)

- What You See: For LIVE boards, the five glowing circles sit at the screen’s base: purple (Deep Calm), blue (Relaxed), teal (Neutral), orange (Anxious), red (Urgent).
- How It Works: Tap one—like teal for “Neutral”—and a box pops up for a note (e.g., “Doing okay now,” up to 100 characters). Tap “Save” (or skip), and the background shifts (e.g., to an ocean), updating your mood across B2GTHR. If CLOSED, this vanishes—you’re just viewing, not updating.
- Why It's There: It keeps your vibe active while collaborating, letting your friend see how you’re holding up as you work together.

How It All Works Together

The SharedBoard screen is your private duo zone, jumping in from SharedBoard Manager (-3) or Urgent Card (+4). The Board Area is the star—scrolling with pins you both add (notes, photos, maps) if LIVE, or a fixed archive if CLOSED—over your mood’s background (e.g., red bonfire). The Resource Sidekick stands by with pro help, glowing urgent if needed, while the mood picker (LIVE only) keeps your feelings in play. Tap “Back” in the header, and you’re back to SharedBoard Manager (-3), where it’s listed as LIVE or CLOSED.

It’s alive with teamwork: new pins pop up instantly—say, Luna adds a link, and you see it right away. Resources connect you to help in seconds, and the mood picker shifts the vibe if you update. The header’s “LIVE” glows green until one of you severs it (via -3), locking it into a memory you can revisit or delete.

Why SharedBoard Matters

The SharedBoard is your private powerhouse in B2GTHR—a simple, special space where you and one friend can tackle anything together. It’s built for anyone, with clear pins, easy buttons, and no tech overwhelm, letting you share support or ideas in real time. Whether you’re piling up notes in an “Urgent” crisis or pinning a map for a meet-up, it’s all about closeness—backed by pros in the Resource Sidekick. It turns connection into collaboration, linking back to every mood and card. Next, we could wrap up with a summary—or dive into anything else you’d like!

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 14: Deep Dive – WellStream Widget Functionality & Design Options

In B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together), the WellStream Widget—often called the "fiber-optic eye"—is your window to your circle's moods right from your phone's home screen. It's not just a pretty decoration; it's a mini-version of the app that keeps you connected without needing to open it. Think of it as a glowing, living snapshot of your friends' vibes—purple for "Deep Calm," red for "Urgent"—that you can customize to fit your style and needs. This section will break down how it works in detail, then offer three exciting options for its design and function, each tailored for different users, from newbies to pros. Let's unpack this shimmering gem step-by-step!

What Is the WellStream Widget?

The WellStream Widget is a home screen tool you add from your phone's widget menu (e.g., long-press your home screen, tap "Widgets," find B2GTHR, and drag it on). It's introduced on the Dashboard (0) as the "fiber-optic eye," showing your connections' current moods in real time, pulled from the WellStream User Cards (-1). It's tied to the app's core—those five moods (Deep Calm, Relaxed, Neutral, Anxious, Urgent)—and glows with their colors (purple, blue, teal, orange, red). You can tweak it in the Settings card (+2) under the Widget Box, choosing who it shows and how big it is. It's always on, updating quietly in the background, so you're never out of touch with your crew.

Core Functionality Breakdown

Here's how the WellStream Widget works under the hood, explained simply for anyone new to B2GTHR or widgets:

- Mood Display: It shows up to 20 connections (your circle's limit, unless upgraded) as glowing "strands" or dots—each tied to a friend's latest mood. If Luna Kim is "Urgent" (red), her strand glows red; if Sam Carter is "Relaxed" (blue), his is blue. Strands pulse faintly to feel alive.
- Real-Time Updates: It refreshes automatically (every 30 minutes minimum, per Settings' default), pulling mood changes from the app. If a friend switches from "Neutral" to "Anxious," the widget shifts—teal to orange—without you lifting a finger.

- Tap Action: Tap the widget, and it opens B2GTHR straight to the Dashboard (0), where you can swipe to WellStream (-1) for details—like Luna’s “Urgent” note: “Need help now.”
- Customization (via Settings +2):
 - Priority: Choose “All Connections” (shows everyone), “Urgent Only” (just red moods), or “Group” (e.g., “Family” only—set in Manage Connections -2).
 - Size: Slide between small (1x1), medium (2x2), or large (4x4) to fit your screen—bigger sizes show more strands or details.
- Accessibility: No swiping or complex gestures—just touch to open. It’s locked to vertical scrolling if it overflows, coexisting with your phone’s home screen navigation.

How It Looks (Base Version)

Picture a small, glowing circle on your home screen—say, 2x2 grid spaces—edged with a faint red border if you’re “Urgent,” blue if “Relaxed.” Inside, fiber-optic-like strands (thin, shimmering lines) radiate from the center, each tied to a friend’s mood color. It’s see-through (20% opacity), blending with your wallpaper, and pulses subtly to catch your eye. Names or notes don’t show—just colors—so it’s glanceable, not cluttered.

Why It’s Special

This widget isn’t just a mood tracker; it’s a quiet lifeline. It tells you who might need you—like a red strand for Luna—or who’s chilling, all without opening the app. It’s tied to every card: moods set anywhere (e.g., MyVibes Tracker -4) update it, and Settings (+2) shapes it. Now, let’s explore three design and function options to make it even more you!

Three Design & Function Options for the WellStream Widget

Here are three unique takes on the WellStream Widget—each with a distinct look and purpose—crafted to suit different users while keeping its core alive. I’ll describe how they look, what they do, and why they’d rock for a newbie or a B2GTHR fan.

Option 1: The Mood Orbit – Minimal & Cosmic

Design:

- Look: A circular widget with a dark, starry background (like Deep Calm's sky), no matter your mood. Connections' mood colors appear as orbiting "planets"—small, glowing dots circling a faint central ring. Each dot's size hints at mood intensity (e.g., a big red dot for Luna's "Urgent," a tiny blue one for Sam's "Relaxed"). The border glows in your mood color (e.g., teal for "Neutral").
- Sizes: Small (1x1, 5 dots max), Medium (2x2, 10 dots), Large (4x4, 20 dots with initials next to each—e.g., "L" for Luna).
- Animation: Dots orbit slowly—red ones faster, purple ones calmer—mimicking a solar system.

Function:

- Display: Shows all connections (or your chosen group/urgent filter) as orbiting dots. Tap a dot in large mode, and a pop-up shows their name and note (e.g., "Luna Kim – Need help now").
- Tap Action: Opens to WellStream (-1) with that friend's card highlighted (e.g., Luna's).
- Extra: In large mode, hold a dot to quick-start a SharedBoard with them—skips the Urgent Card (+4) step.

Why It's Great:

- For Newbies: It's simple—one glance shows who's where emotionally, no clutter. The cosmic vibe feels fun, not techy.
- For Fans: The orbit animation adds flair, and the SharedBoard shortcut ties it to B2GTHR's deeper tools. It's subtle yet powerful—a mood galaxy on your home screen.

Option 2: The Pulse Grid – Bold & Functional

Design:

- Look: A square widget with a grid of pulsing squares—each square is a friend's mood color. Small (1x1) fits 4 squares, Medium (2x2) fits 9, Large (4x4) fits 16 (with tiny name initials like "S" for Sam). The border flashes your mood color in short bursts (e.g., orange for "Anxious"). Background is a solid gradient—say, dark teal to black—keeping focus on the grid.

- Animation: Squares pulse like heartbeats—faster for “Urgent,” slower for “Deep Calm”—making it feel alive.

Function:

- Display: Shows your chosen priority (All, Urgent, Group). Each square’s brightness dims if their mood’s old (e.g., Sam’s blue fades if he hasn’t updated in days).
- Tap Action: Tap a square, and it opens WellStream (-1) to their card. Tap the border, and it jumps to Dashboard (0).
- Extra: In large mode, double-tap a square to send a “Check In?” nudge—your friend gets a notification (e.g., “Jordan Lee says: Check In?”)—once per day per friend.

Why It’s Great:

- For Newbies: The grid is bold and clear—each square screams “this is a person’s mood!” It’s easy to spot trouble (bright red) or calm (soft purple).
- For Fans: The nudge feature adds instant connection—perfect for an “Urgent” friend—while the pulse keeps it dynamic. It’s a no-nonsense vibe checker.

Option 3: The Mood Tapestry – Artistic & Detailed

Design:

- Look: A rectangular widget weaving mood colors into a tapestry-like pattern—strands crisscross like threads. Small (1x1) is a tight weave (5 friends max), Medium (2x2) expands it (10 friends), Large (4x4) unfurls fully (20 friends with name tags on hover—e.g., “Luna” when you tap her red thread). The border shifts through your mood colors in a slow gradient (e.g., purple-blue-teal if “Neutral”).
- Animation: Threads shimmer and ripple—like fabric in wind—urgent reds vibrating more, calm purples swaying gently.

Function:

- Display: Shows your priority filter as interwoven colors. Tap a thread, and a tooltip pops with their name, mood, and note (e.g., “Luna Kim – Urgent – Feeling lost”).
- Tap Action: Opens WellStream (-1) to their card. Tap the whole widget to jump to Dashboard (0).

- Extra: In large mode, pinch to zoom on the tapestry—revealing tiny mood icons (e.g., a flame for “Urgent,” a wave for “Relaxed”)—and shake your phone to “reweave” it into a new pattern.

Why It’s Great:

- For Newbies: It’s artsy and intuitive—colors blend into a story you can read at a glance, no tech skills needed.
 - For Fans: The zoom and reweave tricks make it playful and personal, while tooltips give depth without leaving the home screen. It’s a mood masterpiece.

How These Options Work Together

All three options build on the WellStream Widget’s core—showing your circle’s moods with colors, updating live, and linking to the app—tuned in Settings (+2). Mood Orbit is cosmic and minimal, perfect for quick checks with a SharedBoard bonus. Pulse Grid is bold and direct, adding a nudge for instant support. Mood Tapestry is artistic and rich, offering detail and fun tweaks. They fit small (1x1), medium (2x2), or large (4x4) sizes, and their animations—orbits, pulses, ripples—keep them glanceable yet alive. Pick one in Settings (+2) under “Widget Style” (imagine a future dropdown), and it syncs with your priority (All, Urgent, Group) and mood background.

Why This Matters

The WellStream Widget is B2GTHR’s heartbeat on your home screen—a tiny, glowing bridge to your friends’ vibes. These three options—Orbit, Grid, Tapestry—let you choose your flavor: simple and starry, bold and beat-driven, or woven and whimsical. For newbies, they’re easy to grasp—one tap and you’re in. For fans, they deepen the app’s soul—support, style, and connection in your pocket. Next, we could summarize the whole app—or zoom into something else, like premium features or onboarding!

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 15: A Taste of More – Premium Teasers

Throughout B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together), you'll spot little hints of something extra—premium features that promise to make your experience even richer. These Premium Teasers aren't a single card or screen you swipe to; they're clever nudges tucked into the app, like a “coming soon” sign for a bigger, better way to connect with your circle. Think of them as glowing invitations to unlock more—more friends, more looks, more tools—designed to excite you without overwhelming you, whether you're new to apps or a B2GTHR pro. This section will dive deep into where these teasers pop up, what they hint at, and how they'd level up your journey, all explained simply and with a spark of fun. Let's peek at what's behind the premium curtain!

What Are Premium Teasers?

Premium Teasers are subtle previews of paid upgrades scattered across B2GTHR's cards—like Settings (+2), Manage Connections (-2), and MyVibes Tracker (-4)—teasing what you could get with a premium subscription. They're not in-your-face ads; they're gentle winks that say, “Hey, there's more to explore if you want it!” The base app is free and fully functional—20 connections, five moods, stunning backgrounds—but these teasers hint at expanding that core experience. Maybe it's more connections for a bigger circle, exclusive themes to make the app pop, or deeper tracking to understand your vibes. They're there to tempt you into a paid tier (think monthly or yearly), keeping B2GTHR's heart—connection and support—while adding extra shine.

How They Look

Each teaser appears as a glowing button or text within a card's usual see-through boxes (20% opacity), tied to your mood's background—say, a bonfire for “Urgent” (red) or starry skies for “Deep Calm” (purple). They're framed by the card's pulsing border (in your mood color) and lift slightly when tapped, just like other interactive bits. The teasers don't clutter the screen; they blend in, glowing a little brighter (e.g., gold or silver) to catch your eye, with words like “Unlock More” or “Go Premium” that feel inviting, not pushy.

Where You'll Find Premium Teasers & What They Offer

Here's a deep dive into three key spots where Premium Teasers show up, what they hint at, and how they'd enhance your B2GTHR experience—explained step-by-step for anyone new to the app.

Settings (+2) – Appearance Box: Premium Themes

- Where It Is: In the Settings card's Appearance Box, below "Theme" (Light, Dark, Auto) and "Mood Backgrounds" (On/Off), there's a button labeled "Unlock More" next to "Premium Themes."
- What You See: Tap it, and a pop-up teases "Premium Themes Coming Soon!" with tiny previews—think a galaxy sky with swirling nebulas, a desert sunset with shifting sands, or a rainforest with dripping leaves. Text says, "Upgrade for exclusive backgrounds—more vibes, more you!"
- What It Hints At: A premium subscription could unlock a library of new animated backgrounds beyond the five mood defaults (stars, sky, ocean, leaves, bonfire). These might tie to your mood—like a stormy sea for "Anxious" (orange)—or just be wild extras to personalize your app's look.
- How It Works (Imagined): Subscribe (e.g., $2.99/month), and the Appearance Box adds a "Premium Themes" dropdown. Pick "Galaxy," and every card's background shifts to swirling stars—still pulsing with your mood color (e.g., teal stars for "Neutral"). It's cosmetic but makes B2GTHR feel uniquely yours.
- Why It's Cool: For newbies, it's a fun way to customize without complexity—just tap and enjoy. For fans, it's a reward for sticking with B2GTHR, turning every swipe into a visual treat tied to your vibe.

Manage Connections (-2) – Connections List Box: Bigger Circle

- Where It Is: In the Manage Connections card's Connections List Box, if you hit 20 friends, a glowing note appears below the list: "Maxed out? Unlock more slots with Premium!"
- What You See: Tap it, and a pop-up says, "Go Premium to connect beyond 20—your circle, your size!" It shows a mock-up of a list with 25 or 30 mini-cards, hinting at room for more names like "Alex Ruiz" or "Maya Chen."
- What It Hints At: The free app caps you at 20 connections, but premium could bump that to 30, 50, or unlimited—perfect if you've got a big family, tons of friends, or a work crew to track.
- How It Works (Imagined): Upgrade, and the Connections List Box expands—scroll further, add more via the Add Box, and manage a larger crew. Privacy settings (e.g., “Hide Urgent”) still apply, just with more people in the mix. The widget (e.g., Mood Orbit) scales up too, showing extra strands or dots.

- Why It’s Cool: Newbies can start small, but this teaser hooks anyone wanting a wider net—more moods to watch, more support to give. It’s a practical boost that keeps B2GTHR’s “togetherness” alive.

MyVibes Tracker (-4) – Graph Box: Mood Insights Plus

- Where It Is: In the MyVibes Tracker card’s Graph Box, below the 30-day mood graph, a small button glows: “Deeper Insights with Premium.”
- What You See: Tap it, and a pop-up teases, “Unlock Mood Insights Plus—trends, triggers, and more!” It shows a fake graph with extra lines (e.g., sleep or weather) and a sample insight: “You’re 80% Anxious on Mondays—why?”
- What It Hints At: Premium could upgrade the basic 30-day graph and Insights Box (e.g., “3 Urgent days this month”) into a full Mood Insights Plus—tracking longer (e.g., 90 days), linking moods to patterns (like days or events), and offering tips (e.g., “Try Deep Calm tonight”).
- How It Works (Imagined): Subscribe, and the Graph Box adds tabs—“30 Days,” “90 Days,” “Patterns.” Tap “Patterns,” and it overlays stuff like “Rainy days = Orange spikes” or “Friday = Blue streak,” pulling from your notes or phone data (if you allow it). The Insights Box gets smarter, suggesting actions based on trends.
- Why It’s Cool: For newbies, it’s an easy way to dig into their feelings without fuss—tap and learn. For fans, it’s a game-changer—turning vibes into a story they can act on, deepening B2GTHR’s personal touch.

How It All Works Together

These Premium Teasers weave through B2GTHR like little treasures—Settings (+2) for style, Manage Connections (-2) for scale, MyVibes Tracker (-4) for smarts—each hinting at a paid tier that builds on the free app’s foundation. They don’t nag; they glow quietly in their boxes, tied to your mood’s pulsing border (e.g., red for “Urgent”). Tap one, and the pop-up feels like a sneak peek, not a sales pitch—mock-ups and promises that vanish until you’re ready to upgrade. If you do (say, via a future “Go Premium” button in Settings), the app unlocks these extras seamlessly—galaxy skies, 30 friends, 90-day trends—all syncing with your widget and cards.

It's dynamic: hit 20 connections, and the "Unlock more slots" teaser appears; flip through moods, and "Premium Themes" tempts you. The bonfire or stars shift with your vibe, keeping it cohesive, while gold-glowing teasers add a premium sparkle.

Why Premium Teasers Matter

Premium Teasers are B2GTHR's way of saying, "You're great as is, but there's more if you want it." They're built for anyone—newbies get a taste without pressure, fans see a path to more power—all while keeping the app simple and fun. Whether it's a bigger circle to lean on, backgrounds that wow, or insights that guide, these teasers promise value without breaking the free experience. They turn B2GTHR from a cool tool into a tailored adventure, hinting at a subscription that's worth it. Next, we could wrap up with a full app summary—or zoom into something else, like onboarding or the SharedBoard's premium potential!

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 16: Getting Started with Your Widget – Widget Setup & Onboarding

In B2GTHR (Be Together - Better Together), the WellStream Widget—that glowing "fiber-optic eye" from the Dashboard (0)—is your quick peek at your friends' moods, right on your phone's home screen. But how do you get it there, and how does B2GTHR teach you to use it? This section is all about widget setup—the simple steps to add it to your phone—and onboarding for users, where a new sixth onboarding page introduces it to first-timers. Designed for anyone, even if you've never touched a widget before, this process is clear, fun, and tied to B2GTHR's mission of keeping you connected. Let's walk through how you set it up and how the app welcomes you to this glowing gem, step-by-step!

What's the WellStream Widget Again?

The WellStream Widget is a home screen tool that mirrors the fiber-optic eye from the Dashboard (0), showing your connections' moods—purple for "Deep Calm," red for “Urgent”—without opening the app. It’s customizable in Settings (+2) for size (small, medium, large) and priority (All Connections, Urgent Only, Group), and it updates live as your friends change their vibes (e.g., Luna Kim goes from “Neutral” to “Anxious”). You add it manually to your phone’s home screen, but B2GTHR’s onboarding makes sure you know how and why it’s there. It’s your always-on link to your circle, and this section covers getting it ready and learning it from day one.

Widget Setup – Adding It to Your Home Screen

Setting up the WellStream Widget happens outside the app, on your phone’s home screen, but B2GTHR guides you to it during onboarding (more on that below). Here’s how it works, explained simply for Android and iOS users—perfect for newbies who’ve never added a widget before.

Step-by-Step Setup (Android)

- Step 1: Get to Your Home Screen: After signing up and finishing onboarding (or anytime later), go to your phone’s home screen—where your app icons live.
- Step 2: Find Widgets: Press and hold an empty spot on the screen until a menu pops up (e.g., “Add Apps,” “Wallpapers,” “Widgets”). Tap “Widgets”—it’s like a treasure chest of mini-tools.
- Step 3: Pick B2GTHR: Scroll through the list (it’s alphabetical) until you see “B2GTHR.” Tap it, and you’ll see “WellStream Widget” with size options: Small (1x1), Medium (2x2), Large (4x4).
- Step 4: Add It: Press and hold the size you want—like Medium—then drag it to your home screen. Drop it where you’ve got space (e.g., next to your weather app). It’ll glow with a misty gray circle at first (since you’ve got no connections yet).
- Step 5: Customize Later: Once you’ve added friends and set your mood in the app, it lights up with colors (e.g., teal strands for Sam’s “Neutral”). Tweak size or priority in Settings (+2) anytime.

Step-by-Step Setup (iOS)

- Step 1: Home Screen Time: Go to your iPhone’s home screen—where your apps sit in their grid.
- Step 2: Enter Edit Mode: Press and hold an empty spot until the icons wiggle, then tap the “+” button in the top-left corner—it’s your widget gateway.
- Step 3: Find B2GTHR: Scroll the widget list (or search “B2GTHR” at the top). Tap “B2GTHR,” and swipe left/right to pick a size: Small (2x2), Medium (4x2), Large (4x4—note iOS sizes differ slightly).

- Step 4: Add It: Tap “Add Widget” for your chosen size—like Small—and it lands on your home screen. Drag it where you want (e.g., below your calendar), then tap “Done” to stop the wiggle.
- Step 5: Watch It Glow: It starts as a gray circle, but once you add connections and moods in B2GTHR, it shimmers—say, red for Luna’s “Urgent.” Adjust it in Settings (+2) later.

How It Looks Once Set Up

Imagine a 2x2 glowing circle on your home screen, edged with your mood’s color (e.g., purple if you’re “Deep Calm”). Inside, fiber-optic strands pulse—each tied to a friend’s mood—over a see-through base (20% opacity) that blends with your wallpaper. Tap it, and you’re in B2GTHR at Dashboard (0). It’s alive, updating every 30 minutes (or faster if a friend goes “Urgent”), keeping you connected at a glance.

Why Setup Matters

This setup is your first step to making B2GTHR part of your daily life—not just an app, but a home screen companion. It’s manual (phones require it), but onboarding ensures you don’t miss it. For newbies, it’s a tiny tech win—drag, drop, done!

Onboarding for Users – Adding the Widget Page

Updated Onboarding Flow (Six Pages)

1. Welcome Box – “Hi, let’s connect!” (unchanged)
2. Profile Setup Box – Set your name, photo, etc. (unchanged)
3. First Mood Box – Pick your mood (unchanged)
4. Connections Box – Add friends (unchanged)
5. Walkthrough Box – Learn to swipe and tap (unchanged)
6. Widget Box (New) – Add your WellStream Widget

Widget Box – Page 6: Your Home Screen Glow

- What You See: The screen says, “See your friends’ vibes anytime with the WellStream Widget!” Below, a mini-animation shows a phone home screen: a finger long-presses, drags the widget from a list, and drops it—a glowing circle lights up with purple, blue, and red strands. Text adds, “Add it to your home screen next!” Six dots at the bottom glow—number 6 is brightest, showing you’re on the last page.
- What You Do:
 - Explore: Tap the animation to replay it—watch the widget land and shimmer again.
 - Move On: Tap the glowing green “Finish & Add” button at the bottom. A pop-up says, “Ready to add it? Go to your home screen after this!” with a “Got It” button. Tap “Got It,” and onboarding ends—you’re on Dashboard (0).
 - Skip Option: Like other pages, a blue “Skip” button lets you jump to Dashboard (0) if you’d rather add it later.
- How It Works: This page doesn’t add the widget for you (phones don’t let apps do that directly), but it primes you with a clear demo. After “Got It,” you follow the setup steps above—long-press your home screen, find B2GTHR, drag it on. If you added friends (Page 4) and a mood (Page 3), it’ll glow right away—say, teal for your “Neutral” vibe.
- Why It’s There: This teaches you the widget’s magic—your circle’s moods at a glance—and walks you through adding it, so you’re not lost. It’s the final onboarding step, bridging the app to your phone’s everyday space.

How It Ties In

The Widget Box flows from the Walkthrough (Page 5)—after learning to swipe cards and tap moods, you’re ready to take B2GTHR outside. The misty gray background shifts to your mood’s scene (e.g., ocean for teal) from Page 3, and the animation mimics your phone (Android or iOS detected), keeping it personal. It’s short—30 seconds if you watch once—leaving you eager to try it. The six dots update (from five), and “Finish & Add” feels like a big, exciting finale.

How It All Works Together

Widget Setup and Onboarding team up to make the WellStream Widget a natural part of your B2GTHR journey. The Widget Box (Page 6) shows you why—a glowing eye on your home screen tracking Luna’s red or Sam’s blue—then nudges you to your phone’s home screen for how. Setup is hands-on: long-press, drag, drop—guided by that onboarding demo. Once added, it syncs with your app—moods from Dashboard (0), connections from Manage Connections (-2), tweaks from Settings (+2)—lighting up with your circle’s vibes. It’s alive on your home screen, pulsing faintly, ready to tap into Dashboard (0).

For newbies, it’s a gentle intro—onboarding plants the idea, setup seals the deal. Miss it during onboarding? The Dashboard’s WellStream Widget Box hints at it again (“See this outside—add the widget!”), and Settings (+2) lets you refine it later (size, priority). It’s a loop: learn, add, enjoy.

Why Widget Setup & Onboarding Matter

The WellStream Widget is B2GTHR’s heartbeat beyond the app—and this setup-plus-onboarding duo ensures you don’t miss it. For anyone new, it’s a clear path—watch a demo, add it yourself, see your friends glow—turning a tech trick into a connection tool. The sixth onboarding page makes it a first-day win, while setup keeps it hands-on and simple. Together, they extend B2GTHR’s magic to your home screen, making “Better Together” a glance away. Next, we could summarize the whole app—or zoom into another piece, like premium widget options!

B2GTHR: Product Overview

SECTION 17: The Big Picture – Full Summary

Welcome to B2GTHR—a special app that brings you closer to your friends and family by sharing how you feel, all wrapped in a glowing, sliding world of cards. Whether you’re calm as a starry night or urgent like a crackling bonfire, B2GTHR (short for “Be Together - Better Together”) lets you check in with your circle—up to 20 people—using five simple moods: Deep Calm (purple), Relaxed (blue), Neutral (teal), Anxious (orange), and Urgent (red). From your first swipe to your home screen widget, it’s built for anyone, even if you’re new to apps, making connection easy, colorful, and meaningful. This summary pulls together every piece—onboarding, cards, tools, and teasers—so you can see how B2GTHR lights up your relationships. Let’s dive into the full story!

What B2GTHR Is All About

At its heart, B2GTHR is about staying connected through feelings. You pick a mood—like teal for “Neutral”—and your friends see it on their screens, glowing in your color. They do the same, and suddenly, you’ve got a living picture of your circle’s vibes—Luna’s red “Urgent” might mean she needs you, while Sam’s blue “Relaxed” says he’s chilling. It’s simple: no long messages required, just a tap to share how you’re doing. The app lives on your phone as a series of sliding “cards”—each a screen with a job, like adding friends or tracking moods—over stunning backgrounds that shift with your feelings (stars, waves, leaves). Plus, a home screen widget keeps it all at a glance. It’s free to start, with hints of premium extras if you want more.

How It Starts – Onboarding Pages

Your B2GTHR journey kicks off with six Onboarding Pages, a friendly guide that pops up after you sign up or log in:

1. Welcome: A warm “Hi!” introduces B2GTHR’s mission—connecting you better.
2. Profile Setup: Add your name (e.g., “Jordan Lee”), photo, birthday, and hometown so friends know it’s you.

3. First Mood: Pick your vibe—say, purple for “Deep Calm”—and watch the misty gray background turn starry.
4. Connections: Invite friends by searching names or importing contacts—your circle begins here.
5. Walkthrough: Learn to swipe cards and tap moods with quick tips and animations.
6. Widget: See how to add the WellStream Widget to your home screen—a glowing eye for your friends’ moods.

Swipe through, tap “Next,” or skip anytime—by the end, you’re on the Dashboard (0), ready to roll with a glowing border and six dots showing you’ve arrived.

The Sliding Cards – Your B2GTHR World

B2GTHR’s magic lives in its sliding cards—nine main screens you swipe left or right from the Dashboard (0), each with a number and a purpose. Here’s the lineup:

- Left Side (Negative Numbers):
 - WellStream User Cards (-1): See your friends’ mini-cards—names, photos, moods (e.g., “Luna Kim – Urgent”)—and tap to message, call, or start a SharedBoard.
 - Manage Connections (-2): Add friends, group them (e.g., “Family”), or tweak who sees your moods—up to 20 free slots.
 - SharedBoard Manager (-3): Track your private SharedBoards with friends—LIVE ones to collaborate, CLOSED ones to revisit.
 - MyVibes Tracker (-4): A 30-day mood graph (e.g., purple dots to red spikes) with insights like “3 Urgent days this month.”
- Center:
 - Dashboard (0): Your home base—a fiber-optic eye shows all friends’ moods (e.g., 200 red strands if Luna’s “Urgent”), plus your own vibe and a mood picker.
- Right Side (Positive Numbers):
 - Manage Profile (+1): Update your name, photo, or hometown—how your circle sees you.
 - Settings (+2): Tweak notifications (e.g., Urgent pings), themes (Light/Dark), and widget size—your control hub.
 - Help (+3): FAQs, a tutorial replay, and live chat—support when you need it.
 - Urgent Card (+4): Appears only in “Urgent” (red) mode—rally friends, start SharedBoards, or call a hotline (e.g., 988).

Each card floats over a background tied to your mood—ocean for teal, bonfire for red—framed by a pulsing border. Swipe left from Dashboard to check friends (-1), right to tweak your profile (+1), and tap the mood picker (on every card) to share your vibe anytime.

Beyond the Cards – SharedBoard & Widget

Two standout features take B2GTHR further:

- SharedBoard: A private screen (not a numbered card) you jump to from SharedBoard Manager (-3) or Urgent Card (+4). It's a bulletin board for you and one friend—say, Luna—where you pin notes ("Try this"), photos, or links in real time if LIVE, or view as a memory if CLOSED. A Resource Sidekick offers pro help (e.g., "Call 988"), making it a teamwork powerhouse.
 - WellStream Widget: Add this glowing circle to your home screen (guided by Onboarding Page 6)—it shows your friends' moods as pulsing strands (e.g., blue for Sam). Tap to jump to Dashboard (0), tweak it in Settings (+2) for size (small to large) or focus (All, Urgent, Group). It's your connection at a glance, alive outside the app.

Premium Teasers – A Hint of More

B2GTHR's free version is packed, but Premium Teasers sprinkle hints of extras:

- Settings (+2): "Unlock More" teases premium themes—galaxy skies or desert sunsets beyond the five mood backgrounds.
- Manage Connections (-2): Hit 20 friends, and "Go Premium" offers more slots—30, 50, or unlimited.
- MyVibes Tracker (-4): "Deeper Insights" promises 90-day trends and patterns (e.g., "Anxious on Mondays?").

These glow gold in their boxes, popping up with mock-ups when tapped—tempting you to upgrade for style, scale, or smarts, all while keeping the core free and fun.

How It All Fits Together

B2GTHR starts with onboarding—six pages to set you up—then lands you on Dashboard (0), the hub of nine sliding cards. Swipe left to check friends (-1 to -4), right to tweak yourself (+1 to +4), and tap the mood picker to share your vibe—say, orange for “Anxious.” The widget glows on your home screen, SharedBoard deepens one-on-one support, and premium teasers hint at more. Backgrounds shift (stars, waves), borders pulse, and every tap—mood, message, call—keeps your circle close. It’s alive: Luna’s “Urgent” turns the widget red, your graph tracks it, and help’s a swipe away.

Why B2GTHR Shines

B2GTHR is your glowing bridge to the people you care about—simple enough for newbies, deep enough for fans. For anyone, it’s a tap to say “I’m here” and a glance to see “They’re there.” The cards slide smoothly, the widget pulses quietly, and SharedBoard turns feelings into action—all free, with premium perks peeking out. It’s not just an app; it’s a mood-lit world where you’re never alone, whether you’re calm, anxious, or urgent. That’s B2GTHR—better together, one swipe at a time.

Glossary – Key Terms Defined

Here’s a list of important words you’ll see in B2GTHR, explained so anyone can get them—no tech know-how needed!

- Card: A single screen in the app you swipe to, like Dashboard (0) or Settings (+2). Each card has a job—showing moods, adding friends, or tweaking stuff—and a number to tell you where it sits in the sliding lineup.
 - Connections: The friends, family, or people you add to your B2GTHR circle—up to 20 for free. They’re who you share moods with and check on, like Luna Kim or Sam Carter.
 - Dashboard: The main card (0) where you start—your home base. It shows your mood, your friends’ moods in a fiber-optic eye, and lets you update how you feel.
 - Fiber-Optic Eye: A glowing circle on the Dashboard (0) and WellStream Widget that shows your connections’ moods as colorful strands—purple for “Deep Calm,” red for “Urgent.” It’s like a living picture of your circle’s vibes.
 - Ghost Mode: A privacy option in Settings (+2) that pauses your mood updates to friends for a set time (e.g., 1 day). You can add a note like “Taking a break” so they know you’re okay.
 - Mood: How you’re feeling, picked from five options—Deep Calm (purple), Relaxed (blue), Neutral (teal), Anxious (orange), Urgent (red). You set it with the mood picker, and it changes the app’s look and your friends’ view of you.
 - Mood Orb: A small, glowing circle next to your name (e.g., on Dashboard 0) that shows your current mood color—like teal if you’re “Neutral.” It’s your vibe at a glance.
 - Mood Picker: Five glowing circles at the bottom of most cards (e.g., purple, blue, teal, orange, red) that let you pick your mood anytime. Tap one, add a note (e.g., “Feeling good”), and it updates everywhere.
 - Onboarding Pages: The six welcome screens you see when you first open B2GTHR—guiding you to set up your profile, mood, connections, and widget. They’re your friendly hello to the app.
 - Premium Teasers: Hints of paid extras—like more friends or fancy themes—scattered in cards (e.g., Settings +2). They glow gold and tempt you to upgrade for more B2GTHR fun.
 - SharedBoard: A private screen you jump to from SharedBoard Manager (-3) or Urgent Card (+4) to team up with one friend. You pin notes, photos, or links—LIVE to add, CLOSED to view—like a secret bulletin board.
 - WellStream: The card (-1) and widget feature that shows your connections’ moods in detail—mini-cards with names, colors, and buttons to reach out (e.g., “Message Luna”).
 - Widget: Short for WellStream Widget—a glowing circle you add to your phone’s home screen to see your friends’ moods (e.g., red strands for “Urgent”) without opening the app. Set it up after onboarding, tweak it in Settings (+2).
